Explosion Kills 9 Miners

Investigation Of Tennessee Tragedy Begins

ONEIDA, Tenn. (UPI) — Nine miners, some of them running for their lives, were killed Monday, when an explosion erupted in a shaft of a Brimstone coal camp mine.

The victims were burned to death — apparently caught by a sweeping sheet of flame that snuffed out their lives instantly 4,000 feet inside the shaft. The bodies were brought out by early Monday afternoon and state and federal inspectors began an investigation of the tragedy.

The victims included a father and two of his sons, and two brothers. There were no survivors among the men who had descended to begin the week's operations, and the victims included three of four partners who owned the mine.

Felled By Blast

Four of the first five bodies recovered were found face down on the tunnel floor, their arms outstretched as if they were fleeing.

First indications were that the blast was a coal dust explosion. Authorities also investigated possible gas accumulation in the mine.

Those who ran or were walking away were felled by the force of the blast or overcome by deadly fumes in the underground shaft. Their bodies were unmarked and untouched by fallen slate or timbers.

Employed 11 Miners

Beyond them lay the bodies of their fellow-miners, all near the apparent center of the explosion.

The shaft is one of several deep mines bored into the side of a mountain in Scott County, near the southeast Kentucky border.

There has been labor trouble in the coal fields of Kentucky and east Tennessee recently among small, independent operators, but there was no indication of labor disputes at the explosion - hit mine. Highly mechanized, it employed only 11 miners.

Spending Rate Of Consumers Hits New High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumer spending rose to a record annual rate at the start of 1959.

The Commerce Department, reporting this Monday, said spending totaled 290 billion dollars last year and moved up to an annual rate of nearly 300 billions by the opening months of this year.

The department published in its monthly survey of current business, a detailed study of how consumer spending is affected by changes in income.

While total spending has been closely related to income, there have been important shifts in various categories of spending.

For example, consumers now spend a higher proportion of their incomes for autos, food and beverages than they did in 1929. They spend a smaller proportion on housing and clothing.

In 1958, a little more than 80 per cent of consumer income was spent for goods and services. Of every dollar of income, roughly 50 cents went for goods, 32 for services, 12 cents for taxes and 6 cents for savings.

The traditional necessities—food, shelter and clothing—accounted for half of all consumer spending on goods and services.

Food, beverages and tobacco took 29 cents of every dollar spent, clothing and shoes 8 cents, and housing 13 cents.

Senate Passes Big Bill To Aid "Slump" Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate put a new dent in President Eisenhower's balanced budget hopes Monday night by narrowly approving a $389,500,000 bill to aid areas plagued by chronic unemployment.

Disregarding veto warnings, the Senate passed the measure after voting 52-43 to defeat a 53 million dollar administration bill. Also defeated 70-24 was a proposed 200-million-dollar compromise.

The vote on final passage was 49-46—far short of the two thirds majority needed to override a veto.

The bill now goes to the House where a similar measure is under committee study.

The approved bill, which was sponsored by 34 Democrats and 5 Republicans, is 110 million dollars larger than a similar bill vetoed by President Eisenhower last year. Some GOP candidates blamed his action for subsequent Republican election reverses in key industrial states.

The new bill would include 300 million dollars in loans and 75 million in grants to help economically - distressed communities attract new industries. The federal government would foot 65 per cent of the bill.

Also included in the bill was 10 million dollars to train unemployed workers in new jobs and 4½ million dollars in "technical assistance" grants to depressed areas.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) urged approval of his 200 million-dollar compromise to avert a possible presidential veto. GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) predicted such action last Friday if Congress approved anything near Monday's bill.

Not Negligent But Petrified

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Chevy Chase, Md., woman was accused Monday of negligently failing to get her new car out of the path of an eight-ton runaway steamroller.

It wasn't negligence, Mrs. Ralph E. Zuber's attorney countered. She was frozen with horror.

Mrs. Zuber charged the steamroller operator and his employers with responsibility for $500 damage to her two-week-old automobile and the back and neck injuries she suffered in the collision.

A Municipal Court jury awarded her $2,000 and her husband $1,000.

An attorney for the Corson and Gruman Co. contended that Mrs. Zuber had plenty of time to get out of the way because the operator waved at her frantically 100 feet before the collision occurred.

The defense conceded that the steam roller operator was a novice, that it had slipped out of gear, and was in the wrong lane.

Siamese Twins Are Separated

LONDON (AP) — Ten-month-old Siamese twins Timothy and Jeremy Thackeray, who were born joined at the head, were separated Monday by a surgeon's knife.

"The twins are alive but their condition will remain extremely critical for several days," said an announcement from St. Bartholomew's, the great London teaching hospital.

Brain surgeon John O'Connell, 52, performed the operation—one of the most hazardous in all surgery. The rarest form of Siamese twins are those joined at the head.

Timothy and Jeremy were born last May to Kathleen Thackeray, 35. Her husband Reginald, 39, is a suburban bank manager.

A third boy, Peter was born with the twins.

98-Pound Girl Attempts To Rescue Cave Explorer

CASTLETON, England, Tuesday (UPI)—A diminutive 18-year old girl descended into the murky depths of the "devil's hole" early Tuesday to try to save the life of an amateur cave explorer trapped 1,000 feet underground since Sunday afternoon.

June Bailey, who is five feet tall and weighs only 98 pounds volunteered to try to rescue Oxford student Neil Moss, 20, when an urgent call was sent out for "the smallest potholer in north England."

Royal Navy submarine escape experts arrived Monday night with chemicals to purify the foul air which hampered efforts to save Moss. The student was wedged in a niche of rocks in an accident that recalled the tragedy of Floyd Collins in a Kentucky cave 34 years ago.

Moss, who became entrapped in a 40-foot vertical tube-like crevice while exploring with some other amateurs, slipped into unconsciousness Monday. Rescue officials said Monday night his breathing had become irregular, and there were fears he might not be able to hold out much longer.

Miss Bailey, a Manchester girl whose hobby is cave - exploring, was nearby on a practice rescue mission when she heard of the urgent call for a small potholer, or cave explorer, to go down into the "devil's hole." She arrived at the scene late Monday night dressed in a red sweater and red miner's helmet.

"I'll do my very best to get to him," she said as she began the descent. "As far as I know, there is no experienced potholer smaller than I in the entire country."

House Leaders Launch Foreign Aid Fund Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic and Republican leaders opened a drive Monday to persuade the House to overrule its Appropriations Committee and grant part of the 225 million dollars in 1959 foreign aid funds sought by President Eisenhower.

The committee refused 12-8 last Friday to provide any of the special funds requested by the President to run the aid program's development loan fund for the rest of the current fiscal year. The President denounced the committee's action as "irresponsible."

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said he thought some of the funds should be restored, but added that no decision had been made on the amount. House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) said he was thinking in terms of granting 100 million dollars.

The issue reaches the House floor Tuesday when the chamber takes up a big supplemental appropriations bill to tide over federal agencies during the fiscal year that ends June 30. A showdown on the development loan fund is expected Wednesday.

Search Pressed For Girl's Killer

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The promised relentless hunt for the sex slayer of Candy Rogers gained momentum Monday as an aroused city of 180,000 called for the killer's apprehension.

The ravished body of the nine-year-old Camp Fire Girl was discovered Sunday under a blanket of pine needles in a jackpine stand some seven miles from town. She had been raped, strangled with a piece of her own slip, then buried, 17 days ago. Her legs had been tied together with another piece from her slip. The bright leotards or tights she was wearing were gone. There was blood on her face and neck.

"We're looking for a maniac," said Police Chief Clifford Payne, father of a nine-year-old girl.

Bill Continuing Draft Signed By President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Monday signed into law a bill continuing the peacetime military draft for four more years.

The measure, passed by overwhelming margins by both houses of Congress, extends the act which had been due to expire on June 30.

Besides continuing authority to induct young men between 18½ and 26 years old, the legislation also continues for four years:

—Special authority to draft doctors and dentists.

—The law giving enlisted men allowances for dependents.

—Extra pay for newly - commissioned physicians, dentists and veterinarians.

Nehru Says India To Shun Tibet Revolt

Prime Minister Reports Fighting In Lhasa On Wane

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament Monday India is keeping hands off the anti-Communist revolt in Tibet, and that fighting between the Red Chinese and street mobs apparently has died down in Lhasa, the capital.

His statement apparently demolished one of the last hopes of the Tibetan rebels.

Jyalo Thondup III, one of four brothers of the Dalai Lama, spiritual ruler of the lofty Himalayan nation, told reporters at Darjeeling, near the Tibetan border, "the only hope of Tibetans now is that India and the free world will act."

Representatives of Tibetan refugees met at Kalimpong, also on the border, and decided to seek to send a delegation to Nehru to ask him to use his moral influence with Red China to stop fighting.

"Delicate Situation"

Nehru said, however, that "this is a difficult and delicate situation and we should avoid doing anything which will worsen it. We have no intention of interfering in the internal affairs of China, with whom we have friendly relations."

India always has had close trade, cultural and religious relations with Tibet, but since a Red Chinese army seized Tibet in 1950 Nehru has gone to lengths to avoid offending the Peiping government.

The general opinion in New Delhi is that a Tibetan appeal to the United Nations would have no effect, since Red China is not a member of the U.N. The Tibetans appealed to the U.N. in 1950 without results.

Nehru, in his statement, gave one of the few official accounts of revolt. He said a battle between the Red Chinese and a Tibetan mob in Lhasa broke out last Friday near the Indian consulate as a result of rumors that the Chinese were planning to kidnap the Dalai Lama, who is considered a reincarnation of Buddha.

60 Bullets Hit Consulate

In the shooting, the consulate was hit by about 60 bullets, Indian government sources said, but none of the staff of about 30 was hurt.

Nehru said a crowd had visited the consulate about two weeks ago as a result of the rumors concerning the safety of the 23-year-old Lama, and a group of Tibetan women had asked the consul to present demands to the Red Chinese authorities.

The consul, Nehru said, refused this request, and also turned down a Chinese suggestion that the consulate staff take refuge at Chinese headquarters.

Nehru said he had no reliable information on the fate of the Lama but declared he earnestly hoped he was safe.

Macmillan Treats Officials To Lunch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Visiting British Prime Minister Macmillan treated a circle of Washington leaders to lunch Monday at the British Embassy. The occasion was described as a friendly get together.

"If there was any business I didn't hear it," said Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), one of the guests.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) likewise portrayed the gathering as a social one at which those present exchanged views.

Ike Urges Jobless Pay Hike By States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower called on the states anew Monday to boost regular unemployment compensation payments to 50 per cent of the average weekly wage in each state and make the payments run for 26 weeks.

He told eight governors at a special White House conference the action should be taken this year. The President ruled out any administration support for arbitrary federal standards on the amount and duration of jobless benefits.

In Congress, the Senate Finance Committee unanimously approved a House-passed bill to extend for three months the temporary federal unemployment compensation program born during the depth of the recession. The program would die March 31 unless extended.

The committee sent the bill to the Senate floor for expected approval Wednesday after rejecting, 12-4, a substitute sponsored by 18 Democrats. The substitute would have renewed the program for 15 months and provided federal funds on a grant rather than loan basis.

The White House meeting was called by the President to study ways of strengthening the federal state unemployment compensation program. Eisenhower's views were reported by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell.

The President has been urging the states since 1954 to improve the jobless pay program.

Mitchell also said the administration soon would recommend to Congress that it extend coverage of the permanent unemployment compensation program to 3,200,000 additional workers.

They would include about two million employes who work for firms with less than four employes. Coverage would be extended to all employers having one or more workers on the payroll. Another 1,200,000 employes of nonprofit institutions would be covered.

The governors who met with the President comprise the Executive Committee of the Governor's Conference. They were Leroy Collins of Flordia, chairman; Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia; William G. Stratton of Illinois; James P. Coleman of Mississippi; Steve McNichols of Colorado; William F. Quinn of Hawaii; George D. Clyde of Utah and John E. Davis of North Dakota.

U.S. Accuses Soviet Trawler In Cable Breaks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States told the Soviet Union Monday that evidence in its possession indicates a Soviet fishing trawler was responsible for breaking five transatlantic cables between Feb. 21 and Feb. 25.

A diplomatic note was handed to Moscow. It said the United States "was satisfied that the evidence in its possession raises a strong presumption" that the trawler Novorossisk violated the 1884 international convention for the protection of cables to which both the United States and the Soviet Union are parties.

The note reserved the right to make claims for damages and requested that any who may be found guilty be punished. It rejected a Soviet protest in the matter.

The exchange of diplomatic notes resulted from the U. S. action of sending a party board the Novorossisk off Newfoundland on Feb. 26 during an investigation of damage to the cables.

The Russian protest denied that the Novorossisk was responsible for the breaks in the cables, alleged that the United States had no reason to inspect the trawler and that its detention of the Soviet vessel was undertaken with "provocative purposes."

The note gave a detailed description of the cable breaks. There were 12 breaks in the five cables, it said.

Baudouin To Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Baudouin of Belgium has accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States, the White House announced Monday. Eisenhower was notified this morning that the king would arrive here May 11 for a 10-day official visit.

Dozen Arrested By FBI In Crackdown On Newspaper Puzzle Contest Swindle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI Monday cracked an international ring which allegedly obtained more than $45,000 by getting advance solutions to crossword puzzles in newspapers across the United States.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrest of 12 Americans and said fraud charges have been filed in this country against two Canadians now across the border.

Operators of this "far-flung swindle," as Hoover described it, dreamed up a dummy newspaper company and a dummy bank in Canada to trick the puzzle solutions out of two New York feature services—Superior Features Syndicate Inc., and General Features Syndicate.

American members of the ring then got the solutions by telephone, the FBI said, and collected more than $45,000 in prizes between last November and February.

FBI agents moved in on the alleged ring, arresting four persons in Oregon, three in Michigan, two in Pennsylvania and one each in Indiana and Wisconsin. A twelfth arrest of a Minneapolis man was made in Miami, Fla.

Charges were filed against Joseph Dyson, 30, of London, Ont., and George Dingman, 34, of Port Stanley, Ont. Officials said a legal study will be made as to whether these men can be extradited for trial in the United States.

The FBI said ringleaders in Canada got the bulk of the winnings, while their American henchmen kept small shares.

All 14 were charged with using the mails and long distance telephones to defraud eight newspapers. They also were charged with conspiracy to defraud.

The arrest warrants were issued in Detroit by U. S. Dist. Judge Thomas P. Thornton. A federal prosecutor there said he probably would present the charges to a grand jury next week.

The warrants listed eight newspapers as having been defrauded. They were the Portland (Ore.) Journal and the Portland Oregonian; the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Milwaukee Sentinel, the Chicago American, the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot, the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, and the Syracuse (N. Y.) Herald-Journal.

Several weeks ago, the Oregonian and the Journal announced they had reports of a "fix" in puzzle contests. They stopped using the contests and asked for an FBI investigation.

U.S., British Chiefs Review Discussions

Prime Minister Favors Informal Summit Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan ended their three-day strategy conference Monday by agreeing it was the best they ever had.

The two old friends reviewed their decision to offer the Soviet Union's Premier Nikita Khrushchev a summertime summit meeting during a farewell 30-minute White House talk.

As he prepared to fly back to London Tuesday, Macmillan was reported advocating a series of informal summit conferences with Khrushchev as the surest way to ease tensions inflaming East-West relations.

The British leader was understood to be opposed to Geneva as a site. He favored a more secluded spot to try to avoid the glare of worldwide publicity.

Referring to his talks with Eisenhower, Macmillan said as he left the White House:

"It was the best conference we ever had in the most enjoyable surroundings."

Eisenhower Shares View

Presidential press secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower shared Macmillan's view—equally. Hagerty said Eisenhower enjoyed informal-intimate talks of the kind he had with Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and half a dozen other top British aides.

Macmillan is understood to have outlined his views in favor of informal summit conferences during the weekend talks he had with Eisenhower at Camp David in the Maryland mountains.

Macmillan, however, did not press the President for acceptance of the idea, apparently because he wanted Eisenhower to agree to a single summit parley with Khrushchev this summer.

Macmillan's attitude toward future summit negotiations was disclosed by authoritative diplomatic informants.

Macmillan discussed British complaints against trade restriction during the day with three of the administration's top economic policymakers — Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss, and Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

Summit Talks Seen Assured

Macmillan was reported convinced a summit meeting with Khrushchev has been virtually assured by his private talks with Eisenhower and Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter.

The actual language of the offer to Khrushchev, to be included in diplomatic notes before this weekend, ties the summit parley to a prior foreign ministers' meeting May 11, in Geneva.

Officials said the foreign ministers would be given a triple task: (1) to draft positive agreements on specific issues, (2) narrow East-West differences where accords are impossible, and (3) prepare proposals to be discussed at a summit session.

Eisenhower and Macmillan both agreed, they said, to make it clear a date and site for a heads of government meeting would be picked when developments justify this.

This approach, however, does not foreclose a summit conference if the foreign ministers fail to ease tensions. In Macmillan's view a summit conference would be all the more urgent to avoid war over the Soviet's threat to turn Berlin into a "free city" by May 27.

Six Men Get $7,000 In S.C. Bank Stickup

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Six Negro men, four of them wearing stockings over their heads, held up a bank here shortly before noon Monday. They escaped in a stolen car with an estimated $7,000.

The four masked men — three carrying pistols and the fourth, a carbine — went into the crowded Calhoun Street branch of the First National Bank of South Carolina. Two of the team remained in the getaway car. The bandits ordered all customers to lie down. While two men guarded the customers, two scooped the money from the tellers' tills.

Nehru Says India To Shun Tibet Revolt

Prime Minister Reports Fighting In Lhasa On Wane

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament Monday India is keeping hands off the anti-Communist revolt in Tibet, and that fighting between the Red Chinese and street mobs apparently has died down in Lhasa, the capital.

His statement apparently demolished one of the last hopes of the Tibetan rebels.

Jyalo Thondup III, one of four brothers of the Dalai Lama, spiritual ruler of the lofty Himalayan nation, told reporters at Darjeeling, near the Tibetan border, "the only hope of Tibetans now is that India and the free world will act."

Representatives of Tibetan refugees met at Kalimpong, also on the border, and decided to seek to send a delegation to Nehru to ask him to use his moral influence with Red China to stop fighting.

"Delicate Situation"

Nehru said, however, that "this is a difficult and delicate situation and we should avoid doing anything which will worsen it. We have no intention of interfering in the internal affairs of China, with whom we have friendly relations."

India always has had close trade, cultural and religious relations with Tibet, but since a Red Chinese army seized Tibet in 1950 Nehru has gone to lengths to avoid offending the Peiping government.

The general opinion in New Delhi is that a Tibetan appeal to the United Nations would have no effect, since Red China is not a member of the U.N. The Tibetans appealed to the U.N. in 1950 without results.

Nehru, in his statement, gave one of the few official accounts of revolt. He said a battle between the Red Chinese and a Tibetan mob in Lhasa broke out last Friday near the Indian consulate as a result of rumors that the Chinese were planning to kidnap the Dalai Lama, who is considered a reincarnation of Buddha.

60 Bullets Hit Consulate

In the shooting, the consulate was hit by about 60 bullets, Indian government sources said, but none of the staff of about 30 was hurt.

Nehru said a crowd had visited the consulate about two weeks ago as a result of the rumors concerning the safety of the 23-year-old Lama, and a group of Tibetan women had asked the consul to present demands to the Red Chinese authorities.

The consul, Nehru said, refused this request, and also turned down a Chinese suggestion that the consulate staff take refuge at Chinese headquarters.

Nehru said he had no reliable information on the fate of the Lama but declared he earnestly hoped he was safe.

Macmillan Treats Officials To Lunch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Visiting British Prime Minister Macmillan treated a circle of Washington leaders to lunch Monday at the British Embassy. The occasion was described as a friendly get together.

"If there was any business I didn't hear it," said Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), one of the guests.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) likewise portrayed the gathering as a social one at which those present exchanged views.

Held In Swindle

At left, flashing a big grin following his arrest in Milwaukee is James Francis Theodore, a dance studio operator who collected $2,710 from the Milwaukee Sentinel last November for winning its puzzle contest. At right is Lawrence A. Dyson, 32, Philadelphia, who won a contest worth $6,050. The ring allegedly obtained more than $45,000 by getting advance solutions to the puzzles. Ike Urges Jobless Pay Hike By States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower called on the states anew Monday to boost regular unemployment compensation payments to 50 per cent of the average weekly wage in each state and make the payments run for 26 weeks.

He told eight governors at a special White House conference the action should be taken this year. The President ruled out any administration support for arbitrary federal standards on the amount and duration of jobless benefits.

In Congress, the Senate Finance Committee unanimously approved a House-passed bill to extend for three months the temporary federal unemployment compensation program born during the depth of the recession. The program would die March 31 unless extended.

The committee sent the bill to the Senate floor for expected approval Wednesday after rejecting, 12-4, a substitute sponsored by 18 Democrats. The substitute would have renewed the program for 15 months and provided federal funds on a grant rather than loan basis.

The White House meeting was called by the President to study ways of strengthening the federal state unemployment compensation program. Eisenhower's views were reported by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell.

The President has been urging the states since 1954 to improve the jobless pay program.

Mitchell also said the administration soon would recommend to Congress that it extend coverage of the permanent unemployment compensation program to 3,200,000 additional workers.

They would include about two million employes who work for firms with less than four employes. Coverage would be extended to all employers having one or more workers on the payroll. Another 1,200,000 employes of non-profit institutions would be covered.

The governors who met with the President comprise the Executive Committee of the Governor's Conference. They were Leroy Collins of Flordia, chairman; Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia; William G. Stratton of Illinois; James P. Coleman of Mississippi; Steve McNichols of Colorado; William F. Quinn of Hawaii; George D. Clyde of Utah and John E. Davis of North Dakota.

U.S. Accuses Soviet Trawler In Cable Breaks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States told the Soviet Union Monday that evidence in its possession indicates a Soviet fishing trawler was responsible for breaking five transatlantic cables between Feb. 21 and Feb. 25.

A diplomatic note was handed to Moscow. It said the United States "was satisfied that the evidence in its possession raises a strong presumption" that the trawler Novorossisk violated the 1884 international convention for the protection of cables to which both the United States and the Soviet Union are parties.

The note reserved the right to make claims for damages and requested that any who may be found guilty be punished. It rejected a Soviet protest in the matter.

The exchange of diplomatic notes resulted from the U. S. action of sending a party board the Novorossisk off Newfoundland on Feb. 26 during an investigation of damage to the cables.

The Russian protest denied that the Novorossisk was responsible for the breaks in the cables, alleged that the United States had no reason to inspect the trawler and that its detention of the Soviet vessel was undertaken with "provocative purposes."

The note gave a detailed description of the cable breaks. There were 12 breaks in the five cables, it said.

Baudouin To Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Baudouin of Belgium has accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States, the White House announced Monday. Eisenhower was notified this morning that the king would arrive here May 11 for a 10-day official visit.

Dozen Arrested By FBI In Crackdown On Newspaper Puzzle Contest Swindle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI Monday cracked an international ring which allegedly obtained more than $45,000 by getting advance solutions to crossword puzzles in newspapers across the United States.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrest of 12 Americans and said fraud charges have been filed in this country against two Canadians now across the border.

Operators of this "far-flung swindle," as Hoover described it, dreamed up a dummy newspaper company and a dummy bank in Canada to trick the puzzle solutions out of two New York feature services—Superior Features Syndicate Inc., and General Features Syndicate.

American members of the ring then got the solutions by telephone, the FBI said, and collected more than $45,000 in prizes between last November and February.

FBI agents moved in on the alleged ring, arresting four persons in Oregon, three in Michigan, two in Pennsylvania and one each in Indiana and Wisconsin. A twelfth arrest of a Minneapolis man was made in Miami, Fla.

Charges were filed against Joseph Dyson, 30, of London, Ont., and George Dingman, 34, of Port Stanley, Ont. Officials said a legal study will be made as to whether these men can be extradited for trial in the United States.

The FBI said ringleaders in Canada got the bulk of the winnings, while their American henchmen kept small shares.

All 14 were charged with using the mails and long distance telephones to defraud eight newspapers. They also were charged with conspiracy to defraud.

The arrest warrants were issued in Detroit by U. S. Dist. Judge Thomas P. Thornton. A federal prosecutor there said he probably would present the charges to a grand jury next week.

The warrants listed eight newspapers as having been defrauded. They were the Portland (Ore.) Journal and the Portland Oregonian; the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Milwaukee Sentinel, the Chicago American, the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot, the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, and the Syracuse (N. Y.) Herald-Journal.

Several weeks ago, the Oregonian and the Journal announced they had reports of a "fix" in puzzle contests. They stopped using the contests and asked for an FBI investigation.

U.S., British Chiefs Review Discussions

Prime Minister Favors Informal Summit Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan ended their three-day strategy conference Monday by agreeing it was the best they ever had.

The two old friends reviewed their decision to offer the Soviet Union's Premier Nikita Khrushchev a summertime summit meeting during a farewell 30-minute White House talk.

As he prepared to fly back to London Tuesday, Macmillan was reported advocating a series of informal summit conferences with Khrushchev as the surest way to ease tensions inflaming East-West relations.

The British leader was understood to be opposed to Geneva as a site. He favored a more secluded spot to try to avoid the glare of worldwide publicity.

Referring to his talks with Eisenhower, Macmillan said as he left the White House:

"It was the best conference we ever had in the most enjoyable surroundings."

Eisenhower Shares View

Presidential press secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower shared Macmillan's view—equally. Hagerty said Eisenhower enjoyed informal-intimate talks of the kind he had with Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and half a dozen other top British aides.

Macmillan is understood to have outlined his views in favor of informal summit conferences during the weekend talks he had with Eisenhower at Camp David in the Maryland mountains.

Macmillan, however, did not press the President for acceptance of the idea, apparently because he wanted Eisenhower to agree to a single summit parley with Khrushchev this summer.

Macmillan's attitude toward future summit negotiations was disclosed by authoritative diplomatic informants.

Macmillan discussed British complaints against trade restriction during the day with three of the administration's top economic policymakers — Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss, and Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

Summit Talks Seen Assured

Macmillan was reported convinced a summit meeting with Khrushchev has been virtually assured by his private talks with Eisenhower and Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter.

The actual language of the offer to Khrushchev, to be included in diplomatic notes before this weekend, ties the summit parley to a prior foreign ministers' meeting May 11, in Geneva.

Officials said the foreign ministers would be given a triple task: (1) to draft positive agreements on specific issues, (2) narrow East-West differences where accords are impossible, and (3) prepare proposals to be discussed at a summit session.

Eisenhower and Macmillan both agreed, they said, to make it clear a date and site for a heads of government meeting would be picked when developments justify this.

This approach, however, does not foreclose a summit conference if the foreign ministers fail to ease tensions. In Macmillan's view a summit conference would be all the more urgent to avoid war over the Soviet's threat to turn Berlin into a "free city" by May 27.

Six Men Get $7,000 In S.C. Bank Stickup

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Six Negro men, four of them wearing stockings over their heads, held up a bank here shortly before noon Monday. They escaped in a stolen car with an estimated $7,000.

The four masked men — three carrying pistols and the fourth, a carbine — went into the crowded Calhoun Street branch of the First National Bank of South Carolina. Two of the team remained in the getaway car. The bandits ordered all customers to lie down. While two men guarded the customers, two scooped the money from the tellers' tills.

FBI, Police Of Three States Check Clues In Slaying Of Family

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—FBI agents met with police from three states Monday, going over all available clues in the slaying of a Virginia family of four.

Police from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia sat in on the closed meeting in Washington.

Technicians at the FBI laboratory came up with just one thing to go on — fragments of reddish-brown hair found at the shallow grave near Gambrills, Md., where a mother and daughter were buried.

Carroll V. Jackson Jr. of Mineral, Va., and his family disappeared the night of Jan. 11 as they were driving home after visiting relatives.

The bodies of the 29-year-old truck driver and his daughter, Janet, 18 months, were found March 4 by two men gathering sawdust from a lumber mill pile in Spotsylvania County, two miles west of Fredericksburg.

Last Saturday, two teen-age boys out hunting found the bodies of Mrs. Jackson, 27, and the other daughter, Susan Ann, 5, in a wooded area of Maryland not far from Ft. Meade.

Mrs. Jackson had been strangled to death with one of her own nylon stockings tied around her neck. She was fully clothed. An autopsy showed she had not been sexually molested although her dress was pulled up around her head.

Susan had been hit with a blunt instrument. There were bruises on her face and her skull was fractured.

The grave, 26 inches deep, was near a rural road which ends about a half-mile beyond the spot. The scene is about 20 miles south of Baltimore, near U. S. 301, a major north-south thoroughfare.

The FBI — with 50 to 75 agents assigned — was making microscopic tests of the reddish-brown hair fragments. Mrs. Jackson was a brunette and her little girl was a blonde. Agents also were examining a set of automobile tire tracks found in the sand a few feet from the grave.

Police Chief Wilbur Wade of Anne Arundel County theorized Mrs. Jackson and Susan may have been murdered at the grave site. He said he based this theory on the position of their bodies—the mother on her back and the child face down on top of her.

The murderer also may be a resident of Anne Arundel County, the chief said, because it is "almost inconceivable" that a stranger would stumble on the lonely road.

Tawes To Ask $4½ Million In Extra Spending

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes put the finishing touches Monday to a supplemental budget calling for approximately 4½ million dollars in additional state spending for the year beginning July 1.

He is expected to submit it to the Legislature by midweek and it will be incorporated by finance committees in the 448 million dollar budget submitted earlier.

The major item in the supplement is a reported $2,700,000 to start a four-year program of school teacher pay raises.

Sources close to the governor say it also will include $750,000 additional state aid to general hospitals caring for needy patients and a welfare contingency grant of $500,000 in event the department should run short of regular funds.

The hospital grant is only half of the additional amount sought by the 35 general hospitals which care for indigent patients under a state-aid program. They had asked 1½ million dollars for the entire fiscal year. The governor is understood to have approved half of the amount and deferred the effective date to Jan. 1, 1960.

Other funds are to go for staffing two newly created state agencies, such as his Commission of Economic Development and to help pay the salaries of new judges being added this year. At least six bills have been introduced calling for additional judges in Baltimore City, and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Cecil, Prince Georges and Worcester counties.

The governor has a total of $4,800,000 in extra revenue which will permit adding the items to his budget without any tax increase. Around 3 million of this came from increased estimates in tax yields. Other funds are from a previously available surplus and an overestimating of the amount of social security the state will have to pay out next year.

He reportedly plans to leave only about $200,000 for surplus, but cuts made on his budget by finance committees may increase this amount.

The supplement contains no funds for a state employes pay raise.

Second Elkton 'Marriage Mill' Trial Begins

EASTON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore man testified Monday that he was married four days after Dr. Jacob J. Greenwald of Elkton issued his fiancee a certificate of pregnancy.

Taking the stand shortly after the start of the second of the Elkton "marriage mill" cases, Donald R. McFarland said he visited Dr. Greenwald on Feb. 6, 1958, in the company of a friend.

He said he married Jacqueline Lee Oster of Catonsville on Feb. 10 after obtaining the certificate. Both were under age at the time and, according to Maryland law, needed the certificate to get married if they didn't have their parents' consent.

McFarland testified that his purpose in going to Elkton was to secure a marriage license "because we knew we could get married there."

Dr. Greenwald was charged with perjury in issuing a false certificate of pregnancy to McFarland to enable him to obtain a marriage license.

The state alleges that the girl was not pregnant at the time the certificate was issued and that Dr. Greenwald did not make a physical examination of the girl.

The physician allegedly issued a statement stating that she was three and a half months pregnant on Feb. 6, 1958.

One of the state witnesses called Monday afternoon was Carl Schwartz, vice principal of Catonsville Senior High School. He testified that the school's attendance records showed Jacqueline Lee Oster was present at the school on Feb. 6, 1958.

The case was continued until Tuesday.

The 63-year-old doctor already has been convicted here in Talbot County Circuit Court of conspiring to obtain false certificates of pregnancy.

His two trials grew out of 87 indictments issued at Elkton, known for its quick marriages.

Fund Cut Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Monday defeated a move to restore a million-dollar cut in money for an extension of the George Washington Memorial Parkway in Maryland.

Baby Rushed 700 Miles To Hospital In 11 Hours

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A desperation, three-state ride at break neck speeds with an ailing infant ended Monday with the baby safely between white sheets in a glass-covered bassinet.

Now her fate rests with the skill of heart specialists in Houston.

In 11 hours eight-pound Donna Lee Evans, Joplin, Mo., was sped the 700 miles to Texas Children's Hospital.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Evans. The father is a $40-a-week mechanic.

State troopers of Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas and countless officers in hamlets along the route cooperated to make the dash possible.

The seven-week-old baby was described as seriously but not critically ill.

She was scheduled for a series of tests to determine if surgery could be undertaken to correct her defective heart.

The frantic mother left her Joplin home with the infant and her grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Chrisman, Carterville, Mo., after she was told by her family physician:

"The child has a 50-50 chance to live. Take her to Houston."

Demos Demand Facts On Radiation Danger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats accused the Eisenhower administration Monday of withholding information from the public in an effort to "play down the dangers" of radioactive fallout.

They demanded that the government "lift the band of secrecy" on new studies and documents showing an increase in fallout, particularly in the northern part of the United States.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said radiation in this area "seems to gush down on us, fall all over us" from the upper atmosphere.

He suggested the administration was holding back reports on the threat because they might "cast doubts" on earlier statements by Atomic Energy Commission officials.

Funds For Battlefield Expansion Hit Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James M. Quigley (D-Pa) told the House Monday that the "second battle of Gettysburg — the battle to save the historic battlefield from commercial encroachment—is well on the way to being lost."

Quigley, who represents Pennsylvania's 19th District which includes Gettysburg, noted that a 1¼ million dollar sum to acquire additional Civil War battlegrounds had been struck from the Interior Department's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The department had asked for the funds in order to buy some 9,442 acres of battleground land, including 600 acres at Gettysburg, scene of one of history's greatest battles.

The House Appropriations Committee, however, deleted the entire amount because of the prevailing budgetary situation and on the grounds that the federal government already owns enough battlefield sites.

The first incorporated town in North Carolina was Bath in 1705.

Second Elkton 'Marriage Mill' Trial Begins

EASTON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore man testified Monday that he was married four days after Dr. Jacob J. Greenwald of Elkton issued his fiancee a certificate of pregnancy.

Taking the stand shortly after the start of the second of the Elkton "marriage mill" cases, Donald R. McFarland said he visited Dr. Greenwald on Feb. 6, 1958, in the company of a friend.

Fund Cut Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Monday defeated a move to restore a million-dollar cut in money for an extension of the George Washington Memorial Parkway in Maryland.

The House Appropriations Committee knocked out the item in the President's budget to buy land for the parkway in Prince Georges County.

The amendment to restore the cut was offered by Rep. Richard E. Lankford (D-Md).

Policeman Killed

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A 25-year-old Bladensburg town policeman died Monday of injuries received Sunday in an accident in which he was struck while riding his motorcycle.

The victim, Pvt. George Allen, received head injuries when he was struck by an automobile in Palmer Park.

The driver of the car involved was identified as Paul Carson Jr., 33, of Washington.

Baby Rushed 700 Miles To Hospital In 11 Hours

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A desperation, three-state ride at break neck speeds with an ailing infant ended Monday with the baby safely between white sheets in a glass-covered bassinet.

Now her fate rests with the skill of heart specialists in Houston.

In 11 hours eight-pound Donna Lee Evans, Joplin, Mo., was sped the 700 miles to Texas Children's Hospital.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Evans. The father is a $40-a-week mechanic.

State troopers of Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas and countless officers in hamlets along the route cooperated to make the dash possible.

The seven-week-old baby was described as seriously but not critically ill.

She was scheduled for a series of tests to determine if surgery could be undertaken to correct her defective heart.

The frantic mother left her Joplin home with the infant and her grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Chrisman, Carterville, Mo., after she was told by her family physician:

"The child has a 50-50 chance to live. Take her to Houston."

Actress' Gems Found

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard Monday night returned $14,000 worth of jewelry stolen from actress Lauren Bacall last week. Flying squad officers said they found the gems in a London building but made no arrests. A hunt continued for the thief.

Demos Demand Facts On Radiation Danger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats accused the Eisenhower administration Monday of withholding information from the public in an effort to "play down the dangers" of radioactive fallout.

They demanded that the government "lift the band of secrecy" on new studies and documents showing an increase in fallout, particularly in the northern part of the United States.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said radiation in this area "seems to gush down on us, fall all over us" from the upper atmosphere.

He suggested the administration was holding back reports on the threat because they might "cast doubts" on earlier statements by Atomic Energy Commission officials.

Funds For Battlefield Expansion Hit Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James M. Quigley (D-Pa) told the House Monday that the "second battle of Gettysburg — the battle to save the historic battlefield from commercial encroachment—is well on the way to being lost."

Quigley, who represents Pennsylvania's 19th District which includes Gettysburg, noted that a 1¼ million dollar sum to acquire additional Civil War battlegrounds had been struck from the Interior Department's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The department had asked for the funds in order to buy some 9,442 acres of battleground land, including 600 acres at Gettysburg, scene of one of history's greatest battles.

The House Appropriations Committee, however, deleted the entire amount because of the prevailing budgetary situation and on the grounds that the federal government already owns enough battlefield sites.

The first incorporated town in North Carolina was Bath in 1705.

Two Brothers Arrested After Three Armed Robberies In Washington Area

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Two brothers were arrested by Maryland State Police early Monday shortly after three armed robberies.

One of the holdups took place outside a tavern at Coral Hills, the second at a gas station in Washington, and the third at a Little Tavern restaurant in College Park.

The two men were arrested on U.S. 1 at Oakcrest, a mile south of Laurel, about 10 minutes after the last holdup. Police charged them with armed robbery.

They were identified as Melvin R. Mills, 25, and his brother, Raymond L. Mills, 38, both of Dayton, Md.

Sgt. Garland A. Walters of the Waterloo barracks spotted the men about 1:50 a.m. as they sped north in a 1958 car and caught them after a chase at speeds up to 75 m.p.h. Walters said they had two automatics and a wallet belonging to the first holdup victim.

Police said the latter, Air Force Sgt. Walter Yonkins, 27, of Andrews Air Force Base, told them his wallet had about $20 in it when he was robbed.

A short time later, about 1:20 a.m., a holdup man entered Curley's Texaco gas station in Washington and held up Eugene A. Tuck, 22, the night manager. The holdup man got $48 but dropped three $10 bills as he fled to a waiting car driven by another man.

At 1:40 a.m. police said the Little Tavern shop on U.S. 1 near the University of Maryland campus was entered by one man, also carrying a gun. He ordered counterman Homer T. Sansbury, 38, and two customers to turn over about $100.

The Mills brothers were held pending a preliminary hearing at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Laurel Police Court.

Family Reports Striker Threats

SCHAGHTICOKE, N. Y. (AP)—Because of threats they say they have received from striking papermakers, Mrs. Leland Marcellus and her family are on 24 - hour armed alert at their home.

And because of her watchfulness, a man police described as an armed burglar was captured Sunday at a market across the street.

Mrs. Marcellus' husband is an independent pulpwood-supplier for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. plant at Mechanicville, about 7 miles west of here. The plant has been struck by the United Paperworkers and Papermakers Union for about two months.

A spokesman for the union said Monday Marcellus "is attempting to break the strike, in collusion with the company." The spokesman said he believed the "threats" were a company "dream."

Marcellus, a spokesman for a small group of independent contractors who supply pulpwood to the plant, has been urging an early settlement of the strike. He "is not in favor of either side," Mrs. Marcellus told reporters.

The strike has been marked by flareups of violence.

Blood Appeal Made For Boy

BALTIMORE (AP) — A call went out Monday for 10 pints of blood for 12-year-old Bobby Lawson, who was born with a heart defect.

The boy is scheduled to undergo an open heart operation Wednesday at Johns Hopkins Hospital. The blood needed is type A positive.

There can be no operation if the blood is not available. Doctors say the boy could suffer permanent heart damage if lack of blood forces postponement of the operation.

The appeal is being made by hospital officials and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson of Hillside, Md.

Dr. Julius Krevans, head of the hospital's blood bank, explained that a list of "professional" donors would be called upon normally in such a situation. He added, however, that these persons have been "bled dry," as it is safe for a person to give blood only about four times a year.

Car Believed Used By Fugitive Found

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A car that reportedly belonged to Frank Sprenz, one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals, has been found parked next door to the home of a Charleston policeman, it was disclosed Monday.

Police said the vehicle had been bought in White Sulphur Springs, March 5, three days after Sprenz held up a bank at Hamilton, Ohio, and made off with $25,955.

Since the robbery, during which the wanted man used an airplane as part of his getaway plan, Sprenz has been reported in several parts of the country.

The car had been parked about two weeks ago in a lot near the home of patrolman Tom Mahan. Mahan became suspicious, checked the license number, and found that it was wanted by the FBI.

Industrialist Drowns

COMO, Italy (UPI) — Sightseeing Giuseppe Bonvini got too close. Police said Monday the Milan industrialist edged his high powered sports car too close to the edge of the road overlooking Lake Como. The car nosed over the edge, fell 600 feet to rocks below and bounced into the deep lake. Bonvini was drowned.

Kidnaper Taken To W. Virginia Mental Hospital

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kidnaper Richard A. Payne, who slashed his left wrist and arm with a razor Sunday in an unsuccessful suicide attempt at the Kanawha County jail here, was taken Monday to the state mental hospital at Weston.

The commitment was asked by Prosecutor Charles Walker and granted by Kanawha County Intermediate Court special Judge D. J. Savage.

Payne kidnapped a South Charleston mother and her three children last Wednesday for bargaining purposes. He wanted a former cellmate freed from Moundsville state Penitentiary so that he could kill him.

The mental tests were sought after Dr. Max Goldwin, who treated Payne for the razor cuts, told Walker the 22-year-old kidnaper was "mentally ill and should be in an institution."

Payne, who was captured with his unharmed victims near Logan Thursday by State Police, was found Sunday in his cell, bleeding badly.

He left a note to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood in which he said he had reversed his stand about killing his former prison cellmate. He said he now desired to see Post and his wife reunited and happy.

Payne said he now had no desire to kill Burton Junior Post, since he had "thought things over from the viewpoint of a third person and found out why I hated Post."

"I got rid of the mental blocks and now I have ceased to hate him," he said.

The Eiffel tower in Paris was opened in 1889.

Milk Control Plan Criticized By Mills

BALTIMORE (AP) — The président of Marylanders for Free Milk criticized legislation to create a Maryland Milk Control Commission.

Herman Mills said, "Advocates of a Maryland Milk Control Commission are blind if they think the public is going to swallow milk controls in Maryland."

The spokesman for the consumer group, organized to combat state milk controls, added that proponents of the bill "would find plenty of evidence against state controls" if they would take time to study conditions in states where they exist.

Maryland State Farm Queen Is Special Guest At Annual Meyersdale Maple Festival

Grantsville Girl, Escort, Fire Company And Northern High Band Will Appear

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — Miss Sue Hershberger of Grantsville, Md., and the Grantsville community will play a big part in the 1959 Somerset County Maple Festival to be held in Meyersdale, April 3, 4 and 5.

Miss Hershberger, who holds the title of Maryland State Farm Queen, along with her escort, Richard Miller, also of Grantsville, will attend the many activities scheduled for visitors during the three-day program.

Because of the nearness of the Grantsville community to Meyersdale and the fact that there are many maple producing camps in Garrett County, Md., surrounding Grantsville, just over the Mason-Dixon Line, an invitation to the Maryland Farm Queen to participate was extended by Maple Festival officials.

As a result, Miss Hershberger, alnog with her escort, will ride in a beautiful float being built by the Grantsville community in the mammoth Maple Festival parade to be held at 6:15 p. m. on Saturday evening, April 4.

The two also will take part in the Maple Festival banquet and the Queen's Ball Friday evening, the various activities on Saturday, and the coronation Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the podium at New Colonial Hotel.

The Grantsville community is proud to participate and along with the float on which their Queen will ride, they will enter in the festival parade, the Northern High School Band, the Grantsville Fire Department and equipment, as well as other units.

In the contest at the Maryland State Fair at Timonium, Md., last year, there were 23 girls competing for the title of Maryland State Farm Queen from all over the state. Miss Hershberger, who represented Garrett County, won over the other 22. The contest was restricted to 16 to 18 year-old unmarried girls.

The girls were judged on the basis of poise, personality and approach as well as on farm, home and community participation. After Miss Hershberger won the title, her crowning took place at the Timonium Fair and was followed by a huge parade.

Along with the title went a large gold bowl, a trophy symbolizing her victory, and a four-year scholarship at the University of Maryland. The scholarship came in handy, as Miss Hershberger hopes to become a doctor.

Upon her return to her home community, Miss Hershberger hopes to become a doctor.

Upon her return to her home community, Miss Hershberger was given a tremendous reception, which was preceded by a parade in Grantsville.

Since winning the title, Miss Hershberger has made many personal appearances.

Miss Hershberger, who is 17, is a senior at Northern High School. She is active in her school and community. Her hobbies are dancing, swimming and piano. She takes part in the activities of her church, being assistant organist and is interested in Youth Fellowship.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hershberger, Grantsville.

Her escort, Dick Miller, is also a senior at Northern High. He participates in football at the school and is interested in hunting, fishing and water skiing. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nevin J. Miller, Grantsville.

As an honorary member of the Maple Queen's Court, Miss Hershberger and her escort will be with the Festival Court during the stay of its members in Meyersdale. She will be introduced as the Maryland State Farm Queen and will be a guest of the Maple Festival.

Garrett Court Disposes Of Criminal Cases

March Term Seen As Short-lived

OAKLAND — The criminal docket of the March term of Garrett County Circuit Court was disposed of in short order yesterday.

One case was set for trial, four bad check charges were cleared up when restitution was made, and a youth was given a suspended term for statutory burglary.

Trial of George Richard Sines on two serious morals charges and one of assault was set for Monday, April 6, before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

Four indictments by the March grand jury involving bad checks were handled by Judge Fraley.

Pleading guilty were Tommy Crites and Loring John Crites, both of the Moorefield section. The former was charged with passing one check for $145.92, and another for $182.38, to the Friends Stockyard at Accident.

The latter was accused of passing one check in the amount of $145.81 and another, for $283.79, both on the same stockyard.

Court attaches said there were insuffcent funds in their accounts at that time to meet the value of the checks.

Judge Fraley handed them each one-year sentences in the House of Correction, but suspended the terms when the two men made restitution to the stockyard.

Albert Wayne McKenzie, of RD, Frostburg, was charged with statutory burglary and was given a two-year sentence in the House of Correction. But the term was suspended, and McKenzie was placed under the supervision of the state parole officer, David M. Steele.

Maryland State Farm Queen Is Special Guest At Annual Meyersdale Maple Festival

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — Miss Sue Hershberger of Grantsville, Md., and the Grantsville community will play a big part in the 1959 Somerset County Maple Festival to be held in Meyersdale, April 3, 4 and 5.

Miss Hershberger, who holds the title of Maryland State Farm Queen, along with her escort, Richard Miller, also of Grantsville, will attend the many activities scheduled for visitors during the three-day program.

Because of the nearness of the Grantsville community to Meyersdale and the fact that there are many maple producing camps in Garrett County, Md., surrounding Grantsville, just over the Mason-Dixon Line, an invitation to the Maryland Farm Queen to participate was extended by Maple Festival officials.

As a result, Miss Hershberger, alnog with her escort, will ride in a beautiful float being built by the Grantsville community in the mammoth Maple Festival parade to be held at 6:15 p. m. on Saturday evening, April 4.

The two also will take part in the Maple Festival banquet and the Queen's Ball Friday evening, the various activities on Saturday, and the coronation Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the podium at New Colonial Hotel.

The Grantsville community is proud to participate and along with the float on which their Queen will ride, they will enter in the festival parade, the Northern High School Band, the Grantsville Fire Department and equipment, as well as other units.

In the contest at the Maryland State Fair at Timonium, Md., last year, there were 23 girls competing for the title of Maryland State Farm Queen from all over the state. Miss Hershberger, who represented Garrett County, won over the other 22. The contest was restricted to 16 to 18 year-old unmarried girls.

The girls were judged on the basis of poise, personality and approach as well as on farm, home and community participation. After Miss Hershberger won the title, her crowning took place at the Timonium Fair and was followed by a huge parade.

Along with the title went a large gold bowl, a trophy symbolizing her victory, and a four-year scholarship at the University of Maryland. The scholarship came in handy, as Miss Hershberger hopes to become a doctor.

Upon her return to her home community, Miss Hershberger hopes to become a doctor.

Upon her return to her home community, Miss Hershberger was given a tremendous reception, which was preceded by a parade in Grantsville.

Since winning the title, Miss Hershberger has made many personal appearances.

Miss Hershberger, who is 17, is a senior at Northern High School. She is active in her school and community. Her hobbies are dancing, swimming and piano. She takes part in the activities of her church, being assistant organist and is interested in Youth Fellowship.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hershberger, Grantsville.

Her escort, Dick Miller, is also a senior at Northern High. He participates in football at the school and is interested in hunting, fishing and water skiing. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. Nevin J. Miller, Grantsville.

As an honorary member of the Maple Queen's Court, Miss Hershberger and her escort will be with the Festival Court during the stay of its members in Meyersdale. She will be introduced as the Maryland State Farm Queen and will be a guest of the Maple Festival.

Garrett Court Disposes Of Criminal Cases

March Term Seen As Short-lived

OAKLAND — The criminal docket of the March term of Garrett County Circuit Court was disposed of in short order yesterday.

One case was set for trial, four bad check charges were cleared up when restitution was made, and a youth was given a suspended term for statutory burglary.

Trial of George Richard Sines on two serious morals charges and one of assault was set for Monday, April 6, before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

Four indictments by the March grand jury involving bad checks were handled by Judge Fraley.

Pleading guilty were Tommy Crites and Loring John Crites, both of the Moorefield section. The former was charged with passing one check for $145.92, and another for $182.38, to the Friends Stockyard at Accident.

The latter was accused of passing one check in the amount of $145.81 and another, for $283.79, both on the same stockyard.

Court attaches said there were insufficent funds in their accounts at that time to meet the value of the checks.

Judge Fraley handed them each one-year sentences in the House of Correction, but suspended the terms when the two men made restitution to the stockyard.

Albert Wayne McKenzie, of RD, Frostburg, was charged with statutory burglary and was given a two-year sentence in the House of Correction. But the term was suspended, and McKenzie was placed under the supervision of the state parole officer, David M. Steele.

City To Join Statewide Cleanup Project In April

The city will join the statewide observance of "Keep Maryland Beautiful Month" by staging a cleanup drive of its own next month.

Street Commissioner John J. Long and Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder presented the state and city plans to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Mrs. Roeder said the state committee had sent her literature and other material on the month-long observance and they are available to anyone interested. She asked that the city issue a proclamation and pointed out that Girl Scouts of Cumberland Council are already selling litter bags, proceeds from which will help pay expenses of delegates to the National Roundup this summer in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Long said plans are already underway for a cleanup week next month and he also had received information on the state drive.

Long revealed he has under study changing one facet of trash pickups here during cleanup week, a plan which should prove more efficient as well as economical.

In the past, he said, junk has been placed at curbs for collection along with other debris. Since the city has under contract a junk salvage concern at the city dump, he would ask the firm, the Feldstein Iron and Metal Works, to provide a truck or two for the collections.

The salvage contractor could pick up junk materials at the curb instead of it being hauled to the dump and then salvaged, Long said, adding, that the plan should prove economical for the salvage contractor as well as the city.

Council agreed that the state and city cleanup drives should be staged in conjunction with each other.

'Throw-Away' Bottle Ban Being Sought

A hearing will be held Thursday before the House of Delegates alcoholic beverages committee on prohibiting the sale of chilled beer in "throw-away" containers.

The measure, House Bill 704, introduced by 15 delegates including Del. Thomas F. Conlon Jr. of Allegany County, is aimed at curbing roadside litter, according to the sponsors.

Such a bill could have serious ramifications for Allegany County and Baltimore city where major breweries are located.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, said he would oppose such a bill since it might cause unemployment in the beer industry.

It was reported that members of the Baltimore city delegation are expected to express the same sentiments when the bill comes before the committee Thursday.

Del. Conlon was not available yesterday for comment, being en route to Annapolis and this week's sessions of the General Assembly.

A similar measure was introduced in the legislature in 1957 and it failed.

In other measures affecting alcoholic beverages, a bill to set up a system of fair trade prices for whisky and wine has passed the House and awaits Senate action.

Are wakeful nights a problem for you?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Secret Of Easy Sleep

High as our regard for the good effect of refreshing sleep is, many of us are unable to get enough of it, either because we're too busy or because we get turned down flat when we seek it.

And with the lack of sleep, everything seems to go wrong. Our sense of well-being disappears altogether and our dispositions suffer accordingly. The power of memory and concentration flies out of our reach. Eyes look bleary and faces show lines of fatigue. A sad state for anyone to be in, but especially sad for the woman who tries to be charming.

When this happens to you, it's time to take the measures that will quickly repair the damage to your beauty and personality. The first step is to teach yourself to sleep all over again.

Re-orient your sleeping habits tonight. Eat a lighter supper than usual. If you suspect your evening beverage keeps you awake, try something less stimulating like caffein-free coffee. After your meal, give your self a few hours of quiet relaxation. A chat with a cheerful friend, a puzzle, some music or handiwork are excellent forms of distraction from the troubles of the day, which you must leave behind to give your nerves a chance to taper off.

Then, make a point of retiring several hours earlier than you usually do. After a warm bath and a very light rubdown (so you won't wake up your circulation) perform all your other beauty rites with slow leisure. Be sure that you, yourself, look as pretty as you are when these are done and that your room is so tidy that its appearance is positively soothing.

Now this is the most important thing of all: Don't get into bed, turn out the light and say, "Now I'm going to get some sleep." Take up an old, familiar book instead and read until you can't hold your eyes open. Let sleep get you!

Just before you drop off, roll your head over to the right so that your chin touches your right shoulder and then very gradually move it over to your left shoulder. After a couple of easy rolls, the last little bit of tension will leave your body and leave you in dreamland!

Castle Is Named Acting City Fire Lieutenant

Kenneth H. Castle, a pipeman, has been appointed acting lieutenant in the Cumberland Fire Department.

The appointment effective last Wednesday, was made necessary when Herman J. Miller, previously appointed to the post by Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, declined the promotion. Miller had led the list in the recent examinations for fire captain.

Castle's appointment calls for a salary of $316 a month and he will serve until an eligible list is provided by the Civil Service Commission.

In other appointive action, council named Murl S. Boggs as probationary patrolman in the Police Department at $260 a month. The appointment is effective as of March 19.

Charles R. Bauer was appointed probationary janitor at City Hall effective today at a salary of $229 a month. He replaces Robert Lee Rosser who resigned to return to other employment.

Council, at its meeting prior to the regular session, also discussed the status of the switchboard operator at City Hall. Mrs. Anne C. Perdew has been acting in a temporary capacity, the appointment expiring in April.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery and City Attorney William R. Carscaden are to set up duties of the job and request the Civil Service Commission to take steps toward making the position permanent. Meanwhile, it is planned to introduce an order continuing Mrs. Perdew as switchboard operator until an eligible list is provided.

Council also heard yesterday from Local 812, Municipal Employes Union which represents employes in the street, water, sewer and park departments.

Charles Baker, president, asked council to meet with union representatives to discuss a new wage scale and other department matters since time is drawing near for consideration of 1959-60 budget requests. Council agreed to meet with the union but no time was designated.

City Criticized For Not Aiding Choral Society

The Music and Arts Club of Cumberland yesterday protested action by the Mayor and Council rejecting financial assistance to the Cumberland Choral Society as "an illegal form of contribution."

Two weeks ago council voted 4-1, with Commissioner Lucile Roeder dissenting, to turn down the fund request. It acted after City Attorney William R. Carscaden gave the legal opinion.

The club, in a letter to council, said such action was beyond its understanding and urged reconsideration. Council tabled the matter for further discussion.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech was authorized to advertise for bids for a tractor and attachments for use in the maintenance and operation of the flood control project.

The order was first adopted by unanimous vote.

Then Street Commissioner John J. Long questioned whether the City had received a ruling from the Civil Service Commission on whether the Flood Maintenance crew is a separate department or a division of the Street Department.

After Mayor Keech said no reply had been received Mr. Long directed that his vote be changed to "No."

Mayor Keech pointed out the order "is the one you introduced some time back. You introduced an order to buy a trailer, isn't that so?"

City Engineer C. R. Nuzum replied in the affirmative and Mrs. Roeder pointed out the equipment is needed, no matter who introduced the order.

Mr. Long said, "Now you are changing it so the Mayor can advertise?"

Mr. Nuzum replied, "Don't say I changed it."

"I vote No. Change my vote to no," Mr. Long concluded.

Keech was also authorized to ask bids for doors, lumber and materials to replace a building at Municipal Airport. The building was destroyed by fire some time ago.

The bid of the St. George Motor Company in the amount of $2,821 for a truck was accepted and charged to the sanitary sewer appropriation.

Council granted permission to the Junior Association of Commerce to hang banners on Baltimore Street and on North Centre Street at the Potomac Edison car barn to advertise its "Home Show."

Strike Cripples Mining

TOKYO (UPI) — A strike by the 200,000-member Japanese coal mine workers' union Monday crippled operations of 14 major mining companies in the nation. The walkout was ordered after union-management negotiations broke down. The union was demanding a pay increase averaging $5.56 a month that would bring basic monthly pay of miners to approximately $30.

B&O Boosts Two Former Local Men

Two former Cumberland men who started their careers with the B&O Railroad here have been promoted to top jobs.

Charles R. Wheeler has been promoted to the position of special representative, office of the vice president-staff.

Vincent B. Coyle was named storekeeper at the Mt. Clare Shops in Baltimore, succeeding Wheeler.

Wheeler entered the employ of the B&O in 1919 with the Stores Department in Cumberland. He worked in the stores sections at Keyser, Brunswick, Gassaway, W. Va., and Holloway and Newark, Ohio, before being named to the post of regional storekeeper in 1951 at Baltimore. In 1953 he was promoted to the Mt. Clare storekeeper. Wheeler was Cumberland Division storekeeper in the late 1940's.

The Wheeler family resided on Oldtown Road and were members of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Coyle began his railroad career in Cumberland in September of 1916 as a messenger. He transferred to the Stores Department in 1917 and advanced through the ranks to assistant storekeeper at Mt. Clare in charge of diesels until his recent promotion.

Baby Handicap

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's expectant mothers bet their babies against tax payments as the nation's "spring handicap" galloped on Monday. Babies born before midnight a week from Sunday earn a full year's tax exemption, and many English parents plan their families accordingly. Statistics show March produces more babies than any other month because of the $280 exemption.

--- And The Old Order Changeth

If the imagination is ever truly staggered, this must surely be so of the secret nuclear tests conducted by the United States 300 miles out in space last September and revealed only now. It must be left to the scientists to say what the experiments have proved. But they have already demonstrated with what bewildering speed concepts accepted as true can be upset in this fast-moving age.

Man had, for instance, barely become accustomed to the proposition that any nuclear test above ground could be readily detected because of its radioactive fallout. Yet here were three high-altitude nuclear detonations which were apparently conducted in complete secrecy because the radioactive debris of the explosions was held high above the atmosphere in the earth's magnetic field.

That debris, spreading rapidly around the globe, has created artificial auroras, set up ionic storms which have disrupted radio communications, and provided new information and new ideas about the degree and extent of radioactivity which man will encounter when he ventures into space.

The most spectacular implication of the tests, of course, is that it might be possible to destroy the nuclear warheads of enemy missiles long before they reach the earth by filling the upper atmosphere with a band of neutrons and other forms of radiation which would explode them.

The scientists and the military are already arguing about the feasibility of such a defense—some of them feel it can be done; others argue that a missile warhead could easily be shielded against defensive radiation.

But, if nothing else, enormous new vistas have been opened by these experiments and man will have to arrange his thinking about many things to take account of the new knowledge which has been unveiled.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Refugee Problems

Perplexing is the refugee problem and there are all sorts of refugees scattered about the Earth. They are products of war, of revolution, of displacement, of racial hatred. Soviet outrages in Hungary produced a new class of refugees who moved into Austria and other countries and who must find a place to settle. The Zellerbach Commission estimates that about 175,000 European refugees are non-settled, which really means that they have no country, no place to live, no citizenship.

It is estimated that about 1,900,000 refugees have been resettled but that does not mean that they are living under the best conditions. Many of the refugees are away from their own countries because they cannot or will not accept the revolutionary governments which have taken over; others are racially, religiously or politically unsuited for the new way of life in the countries of their origin. This is particularly true of refugees from Communist countries.

Israel has accepted, since 1947, about 200,000 refugees from Western Europe and there has been a constant influx of refugees from elsewhere. The European migration to Israel tapered off until recently when Jews from Rumania were encouraged to leave that country for Israel.

The Arab-Israel refugee problem has never been solved, but it undoubtedly will be as Nasser becomes more and more anti-Communist. Should Nasser break with Moscow altogether, it is possible that a joint Arab-Israel policy on refugees can be worked out.

Those refugees who have escaped from Communist countries offer a serious problem because most European countries and the United States have absorbed about as many as they can. For instance, according to the Zellerbach Report, Western Europe has absorbed about 900,000 of them and the United States about 460,000. It is very doubtful whether these areas can absorb many more refugees. The United States, in particular, cannot at the present time afford to add to its unemployment by bringing in refugees, except those of the highest professional skills. The Zellerbach Commission reports:

"... Many refugees in Europe lost out on resettlement opportunities because they were past 40, or because they had TB scars on their lungs, or because of some minor physical defect, or because of a single member of their family suffered from a condition which made them unacceptable to the immigration countries. The result has been an accumulation, both in-camp and out-of-camp, of refugees who used to be referred to in the old days as 'hard core,' but who are now referred to, in official parlance, as 'difficult to resettle'."

Refugees are human beings who have been dispossessed or displaced by circumstances over which they have no control. Many of them suffer only from the fault of having been born in the wrong place at the wrong time. Many of them have been so long hopeless that they have been hardened by life and made unadjustable and inflexible.

The refugee situation in China is most peculiar. The White Russians, who are there, settled in China, particularly in Manchuria, immediately after World War I. Their children were born in China but were not nationalized. At various periods, Soviet Russia invited them to return to that country under an amnesty and many did return. Those who remained in China were stateless, but could earn a living in that country until the Red Chinese became masters. The condition of the White Russians in China is now disastrous. They must leave that country and re-settle elsewhere. The difficult problem is for them to fit into other societies, for the White Russian in China has developed a culture pattern of his own.

The refugee problem is a source of great disturbance wherever it exists. It is impossible to permit these human beings to be destroyed by an historic accident; it is difficult to absorb them readily in other countries; it is almost impossible to sustain them on a decent standard of living; most of them are not permitted to do any work which competes with local labor except under special conditions.

Into this tragic situation appears racism, the dislike of man for man because of racial or historic differences. Racism is a psychological response to the challenge of difference and exists everywhere. The assumption of racial superiority also exists everywhere, each people assuming that it is the perfect tribe. To this human characteristic, there is not yet an answer.

United States Will Be In Middle Of Next Tempest In Caribbean

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson, who has been traveling through the revolt-torn Caribbean, today begins a series of columns on the problems faced by the USA in that vital area.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — If you sit on the shore of northwest Haiti and look out across that 50-mile stretch of azure blue Caribbean called the Windward Passage you would never guess that trouble lurked beyond. A native fishing boat meanders by, pushed by a home-made sail. An ocean freighter cuts a slim rift of white in the blue as it follows the route taken by British frigates, Spanish pirates, and Carib revolutionaries since the days of Columbus 450 years ago.

Barely discernible behind a clump of trees, however, and pointing out toward the 50-mile stretch of sea is a French 75 cannon of World War I. Lolling beside it are Haitian soldiers stripped to the waist, enjoying the spring sunshine. They are supposed to be guarding northwest Haiti from the new menace which worries the Caribbean — Castroism.

Just 50 miles across that blue water is Cuba's Oriente Province where Fidel Castro hid and fought. Across that passage thousands of Haitians have sailed seeking work on Oriente sugar plantations. Across that passage, three times a week until recently, have been beamed broadcasts from Radio Progreso, exhorting Haitians to rise up against President Duvalier. And from across that passage President Duvalier worries over the Haitian exiles and Haitian sugar workers and Castro's bearded warriors expected to invade his country.

USA In The Middle

The invasion might be classified as just another tempest in a country which has been racked by tempestuous revolts ever since Toussaint L'Ouverture kicked the French out of the world's first Negro republic. But for Americans it will be extremely important, for two reasons: 1—The USA will be right in the middle; 2—Castro has his eyes on the entire Caribbean.

His invasion of Haiti would not be aimed at President Francois Duvalier, the Michigan University-educated country doctor who holds uncertain reign over the black Republic, but at Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, who holds tight reign over the Dominican Republic just beyond.

Fidel Castro has sworn "death to dictators!" and Haiti is in the path of the No. 1 dictator of the Caribbean.

He also has his eyes on the son of another famous dictator, President Luis Somoza, whose swaggering Marine Corps-trained father so long ruled the tropical republic of Nicaragua.

In fact, Castro may have even larger aims. He has become an embryo Nasser of the Caribbean with an ambition to cement these strategic islands with Central America into a sort of "United Carib Republic." And just as Nasser electrified the Arab world by taking Suez, some of Castro's cohorts advise him not to stop until he has demanded the Panama Canal be operated for the benefit of Carib countries.

Dictators Vs. Democrats

This may be a long time in the making. For the moment, the lineup in the Caribbean is the Three Democrats versus the Three Dictators — President Betancourt of Venezuela, Gov. Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, and Castro, versus Somoza of Nicaragua, Duvalier of Haiti, and Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

The description is not entirely accurate, since Duvalier was elected, and Somoza has inaugurated democracy reforms, while Munoz Marin governs part of the USA. Nevertheless, in a loose way, that is the line-up of Caribbean rivalry with the United States sweating in the middle.

Our predicament results from the embarrassing fact that we don't want to back dictators, yet at the same time we can't tolerate war. Under the nonaggression pacts of the Pan American Union, the United States is pledged to intervene, with other nations, to protect any member from attack. Yet if we intervene to protect Haiti and the Dominican Republic we are put in the position of defending the No. 1 dictator of the Caribbean — Generalissimo Trujillo.

Milton Eisenhower, worried over the unpopularity of dictators, has recommended to his brother that he cut off U. S. support to dictators. He has even scrutinized the fact that we buy $68,000,000 worth of goods from dictator Trujillo every year—one-half his exports — and raised the question of whether we shouldn't cut them off.

Yet simultaneously we are pledged by Pan American treaties to protect Trujillo if he is invaded. That's our predicament.

Meanwhile, the little band of Haitian soldiers lolling in the sun around that French 75 artillery piece looking out over the azure blue of the Windward Passage can no more prevent an invasion from Cuba than a water pistol. They were completely surprised and decidedly miffed to have Bernard Diederich, editor of the Haitian Sun, walk up beyond them the other day while they were asleep.

Castro's forces could land at night and hide out just as long in the hills of Haiti as they did in the hills of Cuba's Oriente Province — which was a long time.

Editors Note — Another Pearson column on how turmoil in the Caribbean affects the USA will follow tomorrow.

The Situation Gets 'Curiouser And Curiouser'

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

In the language of "Alice," the political situation in the Soviet Union is getting curiouser and curiouser. It could even turn out to have rather more bearing on the Berlin crisis than the ritual consultations between the President and Prime Minister Macmillan.

The latest enigma is the abrupt replacement of the Chairman of the State Planning Commission, Iosif Kuzmin, by his own deputy Alexei Kosygin. In American terms, this is like the sudden, unexplained replacement of the Secretary of the Treasury plus the Director of the Budget Bureau. The evidence is too conflicting to be made clear who has been doing what to whom; that the Kuzmin-Kosygin shift is certainly linked to inner party politics in some way or other.

What makes the latest enigma so vividly interesting, however, is its place at the end of a considerable list of other enigmas. Taken together, they indicate that all sorts of contradictory forces are still at work within the Kremlin, behind the facade of Nikita Khrushchev's seemingly monolithic control. The proof is plain, if the enigmas are simply listed item by item.

ITEM: The party secretaries, (i. e., the party bosses) of two provincial districts and the ultra-important Moscow district were recently disciplined and cashiered. These men were charged with having conducted an agitation in the party cells in their district, and especially in the military cells of the party, against measures to discipline the so-called "anti-party group" of Khrushchev's enemies at the party congress in January.

This must mean that Khrushchev tried and failed to get the party congress to use really severe measures against his enemies. It must mean further that he was opposed by the Red Army, at any rate at that time.

ITEM: At the Congress itself, the wicked "anti-party group" was endlessly denounced, with special shrillness by the now-demoted Kuzmin. The lesser, more lately mentioned members of the group, old Nikolai Bulganin, Pervukhin (whom Kuzmin especially attacked) and Saburov, all came before the congress and grovelled in proper form. But the key, original members of the group, Georgi Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov, Kaganovich and Shepilov, were all noteworthy absentees and non-grovelers. Item two fits neatly on to Item one.

ITEM: Prior to the party congress an attempt was made to transfer Khrushchev's single-most infuential enemy, Vyacheslav Molotov, from his ambassadorial post in Outer Mongolia to the Soviet Embassy to the Netherlands. In Eulan-Bator, Molotov is believed to be in close contact with the Chinese Communists, who are in turn believed to take a major stand in the inner party intrigues in the Kremlin. If Molotov had gone to The Hague, the contact with the Chinese would have been broken. But Molotov did not go, although the Dutch did not object.

ITEM: Also prior to the party congress, a much-touted plenum of the Central Committee of the party was held in Moscow. After the plenum, the absolutely unprecedented step was taken of publishing the transcript of the discussions. The main points discussed were the familiar signs of the anti-party group, and the glories of Nikata Khrushchev's agricultural program. The break with precedent implied a desire to intimidate the political opponents. And again, the absentees at the plenum were noteworthy. Those who attended were almost exclusively the provincial party leaders, who have always been mainly pro-Khrushchev. Among the key people on the heights in Moscow, only Khrushchev himself appeared and spoke.

All these items combined suggest that the enormous power now concentrated in Khrushchev's hands is only conditional power as yet. If Khrushchev has indeed tried and failed to discipline his enemies more sharply, and to ship Molotov off to The Hague, then he cannot as yet be the absolute master in the Kremlin house. He must have enough opponents, probably old Stalinists in the main, to prevent him from carrying all before him in the most crucial of all areas, the area of inner party politics.

That fact in turn undoubtedly has enormous meaning in terms of the Berlin crisis. To be sure, it may mean that Khrushchev has threatened Berlin because he had to conciliate the Stalinist advocates of a hard line. Or it may mean that Khrushchev is taking a great personal gamble, in order to win such a victory that no one will dare to oppose him.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON — From time to time Washington shows a disturbing faculty for becoming embroiled in fruitless and harmful "debates." Such a one is going on now over the question of whether our defense posture is adequate in the light of the threat we face in the Berlin crisis.

Much heat has been brought on the subject, but little light. Democrats have centered their criticisms on two facets of the United States defense plant. One, opposition to proposed reductions in the size of the Army and Marine Corps. Two, the "gap" in the number of long range missiles which the United States will have in comparison with estimates of the Soviet missile program.

Republicans generally have countered this criticism by asserting that United States defenses are adequate and that President Eisenhower, who has the ultimate responsibility, has the military experience to make correct judgments in this field.

Actually, military men know something privately that has not been brought out in the spate of words on the subject flowing out of Washington. No military position can be judged adequate or inadequate until it is put to the test of war. Germnay learned this in two world wars. The United States should have learned it in Korea.

The kind of public discussion that is now going on in Congress and elsewhere in Washington can do nothing but harm. For, as a responsible body of public opinion begins to express doubt as to our military capability, it cannot but encourage our potential enemies to be a little firmer, push a little harder in the whole area of international tensions, and in Berlin particularly.

Women Over 35 Need Checkup Twice A Year

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many hospital and surgical insurance plans are prepared to pay $1,000 to treat a patient with cancer at the opening (cervix) of the uterus. They do not have policies for preventing the condition yet the same amount of money that is spent on treatment would buy 100 office visits at $10 each for 50 years of semi-annual examinations.

Dr. Willis E. Brown of Little Rock makes this point in stressing the need for more public education in the field of preventive medicine. A periodic simple office examination of the pelvic structures of the breasts would detect the types of cancer that accounts for 80 per cent of the tumor deaths in women.

In this way, a malignancy could be uncovered early enough to change the cure rate from the present 40 per cent to 90 per cent without utilizing a new discovery. This means two visits a year — without fail.

This is only part of the story. Ideally, a woman's initial visit to the physician would be the premarital examination at which time the various aspects of sex and pregnancy could be discussed. The young woman would have the satisfaction of knowing she is healthy and in good physical condition, thus avoiding many of the marital problems due to ignorance of pelvic abnormalities.

The next group of routine examinations might be those associated with the pregnancy and aftercare of the new mother. The twice a year schedule should begin in earnest after age 35 and continue through 65-70.

During the mid-forties, the physician would offer premenopausal advice to help many pass through another difficult interval. The entire process is discussed thoroughly so the woman knows what to expect and how to adjust to a new way of living by taking a more positive approach to her new role in womanhood.

PUBLIC EXPECTORATION

F. G. writes: Is spitting on the street against the law? It seems to me this is more important than the litterbug campaign.

REPLY

It is in some communities but not in others. This column is syndicated and receives letters from many cities, so that I hesitate to make a definite statement about any specific city.

BONE INFECTION

K. D. writes: What would cause osteomyelitis of the leg to recur after 20 years?

REPLY

This bone infection tends to recur when the part is injured or general resistance drops. However, it will be easier to bring the disease under control than it was 20 years ago, for which we can thank the antibiotics.

KIDNEY DISORDER

W. S. writes: What kind of medicine is used in treating nephrosis?

REPLY

The corticosteroids are the best remedies. The list includes drugs such as cortisone, prednisolene, and methylprednisolone. The diuretics may be used also to encourage fluid elimination.

CONCUSSION FROM FALL

Mrs. L. writes: A 2½ year old child suffered a mild concussion after a fall. There were no symptoms other than vomiting. Will such an injury affect her in some way later in life?

REPLY

There's a better than 95 per cent chance that complete recovery will occur but the die is cast and only time will tell.

PHLEBITIS

Mrs. B. writes: What causes a vein clot?

REPLY

Injury to or inflammation of the wall of the vein. Our leaflet on phlebitis covers this subject. It may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

NOT RELAXED

W. L. writes: I don't eat before going to bed but have terrifying dreams. What could cause this?

REPLY

Your mind continues to be active and you re-live the day experiences of your own and of some one else. Many persons relax before turning out the light by watching TV, listening to the radio, or reading.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Whenever he had occasion to enter the ladies' dressing room backstage at a Toronto theatre, electrician Lyle Alton fell into the habit of singing out, "Close your eyes, girls! I'm coming through!"

Variety reports that one of the girls who's been appearing in that theatre for ten solid weeks suddenly gasped with the realization that she'd been falling for the gag from the first performance on!

An angry diner at a newly opened restaurant told the waiter, "You'll never get by with portions like this. I don't think I've seen a smaller piece of steak in my life." "You're right," agreed the conciliatory waiter, "but I think it will take you a good long time to eat it."

A draftee of Italian lineage dropped into a South Carolina beanery and asked if he could have a pizza pie. "Sho 'nuff," said the waitress politely. "Would yo-all like a pizza apple, peach, or cherry pie?"

A Need For Rules

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—The Federal Reserve Board is concerned about the stock market. It should be, so should the N.Y. Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange.

There are more jiggles, "pool" operations, manipulations, raiding and rumor mongering than in any period since the SEC came into being.

The four big centers of the modern version of the old time "pool" operations are:

The 7th Ave. garment area in New York City.

Las Vegas.

Miami.

Los Angeles.

The operations take financing and this is done in several ways that while maybe legal are contrary to the intent of the Federal Reserve's credit regulations as applied to banks.

These include:

Loans from commercial banks on the claim they are for non-purpose borrowing. That is not for the purpose of carrying or buying securities. Such loans can be made far below the 90 per cent margin requirements.

Loans from so-called factoring concerns with securities put up as collateral. The factoring concerns — mostly smaller, little known outfits—in turn pledged the securities with commercial banks for money which is re-lent for the same purpose.

Loans from high interest charging money lenders, who also will "discount" the loan with a commercial bank.

Loans from out-of-town banks, particularly the small institutions in outlying areas.

In addition, free use is made of Swiss banks, foreign money lenders and so-called trusts chartered in Switzerland, Tangier and Lichtenstein.

The Federal Reserve is somewhat aware of the situation, although probably not as to the full ramifications of the operation. It is seeking to tighten the regulations covering non-purpose loans and also to force non-bank lenders to file reports on loans secured by stock.

Some of the loans are financed by borrowing of business partnerships and family owned businesses. This borrowing will be done without putting up securities as collateral, but the proceeds of loans will be used for carrying a stock market operation.

At the present time there is no way of telling how big is the volume of this kind of borrowing.

One way of enforcement of the Federal Reserve non-purpose loan regulations is for the banks to require a sworn statement that such borrowing is not for buying or carrying securities.

This would permit a grand jury indictment for perjury if such non-purpose loans from a bank were used for carrying or buying securities.

Many borrowers will tell a bank they are going to buy a car, remodel a home and or make some business improvement and then turn around and buy stock.

The new day "pool" operators do it on a much bigger scale. Their borrowing runs into the hundreds of thousands. Alexander L. Guterma used a small Long Island bank to finance part of his empire building. Also a foreign money lender and a Swiss bank.

The Penn-Texas operations were financed with Swiss banks, as well as by a number of out-of-town banks.

Stock Exchange rules are being violated in many of the cases. Customers will "suggest" where financing can be obtained in this country or abroad. In a "pool" operation they will help spread rumors.

The underworld is another source of money.

The rumor mongering is reaching such proportions that this office was called by an individual claiming to be the head of a respectable investment trust. It was a "hot tip" on a stock, which the caller suggested was a good item for a "Wall Street Hears" feature.

A call to the investment trust man found he had never made the call and knew nothing about the stock being 'piped.'

Some press agents are finding a new, lucrative field in dreaming up puff stories on highly speculative situations.

Then, there are the high pressure "boiler shop" telephone salesmen who have no regard for the truth.

--- And The Old Order Changeth

If the imagination is ever truly staggered, this must surely be so of the secret nuclear tests conducted by the United States 300 miles out in space last September and revealed only now. It must be left to the scientists to say what the experiments have proved. But they have already demonstrated with what bewildering speed concepts accepted as true can be upset in this fast-moving age.

Man had, for instance, barely become accustomed to the proposition that any nuclear test above ground could be readily detected because of its radioactive fallout. Yet here were three high-altitude nuclear detonations which were apparently conducted in complete secrecy because the radioactive debris of the explosions was held high above the atmosphere in the earth's magnetic field.

That debris, spreading rapidly around the globe, has created artificial auroras, set up ionic storms which have disrupted radio communications, and provided new information and new ideas about the degree and extent of radioactivity which man will encounter when he ventures into space.

The most spectacular implication of the tests, of course, is that it might be possible to destroy the nuclear warheads of enemy missiles long before they reach the earth by filling the upper atmosphere with a band of neutrons and other forms of radiation which would explode them.

The scientists and the military are already arguing about the feasibility of such a defense—some of them feel it can be done; others argue that a missile warhead could easily be shielded against defensive radiation.

But, if nothing else, enormous new vistas have been opened by these experiments and man will have to arrange his thinking about many things to take account of the new knowledge which has been unveiled.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Refugee Problems

Perplexing is the refugee problem and there are all sorts of refugees scattered about the Earth. They are products of war, of revolution, of displacement, of racial hatred. Soviet outrages in Hungary produced a new class of refugees who moved into Austria and other countries and who must find a place to settle. The Zellerbach Commission estimates that about 175,000 European refugees are non-settled, which really means that they have no country, no place to live, no citizenship.

It is estimated that about 1,900,000 refugees have been resettled but that does not mean that they are living under the best conditions. Many of the refugees are away from their own countries because they cannot or will not accept the revolutionary governments which have taken over; others are racially, religiously or politically unsuited for the new way of life in the countries of their origin. This is particularly true of refugees from Communist countries.

Israel has accepted, since 1947, about 200,000 refugees from Western Europe and there has been a constant influx of refugees from elsewhere. The European migration to Israel tapered off until recently when Jews from Rumania were encouraged to leave that country for Israel.

The Arab-Israel refugee problem has never been solved, but it undoubtedly will be as Nasser becomes more and more anti-Communist. Should Nasser break with Moscow altogether, it is possible that a joint Arab-Israel policy on refugees can be worked out.

Those refugees who have escaped from Communist countries offer a serious problem because most European countries and the United States have absorbed about as many as they can. For instance, according to the Zellerbach Report, Western Europe has absorbed about 900,000 of them and the United States about 460,000. It is very doubtful whether these areas can absorb many more refugees. The United States, in particular, cannot at the present time afford to add to its unemployment by bringing in refugees, except those of the highest professional skills. The Zellerbach Commission reports:

". . . Many refugees in Europe lost out on resettlement opportunities because they were past 40, or because they had TB scars on their lungs, or because of some minor physical defect, or because of a single member of their family suffered from a condition which made them unacceptable to the immigration countries. The result has been an accumulation, both in-camp and out-of-camp, of refugees who used to be referred to in the old days as 'hard core,' but who are now referred to, in official parlance, as 'difficult to resettle'."

Refugees are human beings who have been dispossessed or displaced by circumstances over which they have no control. Many of them suffer only from the fault of having been born in the wrong place at the wrong time. Many of them have been so long hopeless that they have been hardened by life and made unadjustable and inflexible.

The refugee situation in China is most peculiar. The White Russians, who are there, settled in China, particularly in Manchuria, immediately after World War I. Their children were born in China but were not nationalized. At various periods, Soviet Russia invited them to return to that country under an amnesty and many did return. Those who remained in China were stateless, but could earn a living in that country until the Red Chinese became masters. The condition of the White Russians in China is now disastrous. They must leave that country and re-settle elsewhere. The difficult problem is for them to fit into other societies, for the White Russian in China has developed a culture pattern of his own.

The refugee problem is a source of great disturbance wherever it exists. It is impossible to permit these human beings to be destroyed by an historic accident; it is difficult to absorb them readily in other countries; it is almost impossible to sustain them on a decent standard of living; most of them are not permitted to do any work which competes with local labor except under special conditions.

Into this tragic situation appears racism, the dislike of man for man because of racial or historic differences. Racism is a psychological response to the challenge of difference and exists everywhere. The assumption of racial superiority also exists everywhere, each people assuming that it is the perfect tribe. To this human characteristic, there is not yet an answer.

The Situation Gets 'Curiouser And Curiouser'

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

In the language of "Alice," the political situation in the Soviet Union is getting curiouser and curiouser. It could even turn out to have rather more bearing on the Berlin crisis than the ritual consultations between the President and Prime Minister Macmillan.

The latest enigma is the abrupt replacement of the Chairman of the State Planning Commission, Iosif Kuzmin, by his own deputy Alexei Kosygin. In American terms, this is like the sudden, unexplained replacement of the Secretary of the Treasury plus the Director of the Budget Bureau. The evidence is too conflicting to be made clear who has been doing what to whom; that the Kuzmin-Kosygin shift is certainly linked to inner party politics in some way or other.

What makes the latest enigma so vividly interesting, however, is its place at the end of a considerable list of other enigmas. Taken together, they indicate that all sorts of contradictory forces are still at work within the Kremlin, behind the facade of Nikita Khrushchev's seemingly monolithic control. The proof is plain, if the enigmas are simply listed item by item.

ITEM: The party secretaries, (i. e., the party bosses) of two provincial districts and the ultra-important Moscow district were recently disciplined and cashiered. These men were charged with having conducted an agitation in the party cells in their district, and especially in the military cells of the party, against measures to discipline the so-called "anti-party group" of Khrushchev's enemies at the party congress in January.

This must mean that Khrushchev tried and failed to get the party congress to use really severe measures against his enemies. It must mean further that he was opposed by the Red Army, at any rate at that time.

ITEM: At the Congress itself, the wicked "anti-party group" was endlessly denounced, with special shrillness by the now-demoted Kuzmin. The lesser, more lately mentioned members of the group, old Nikolai Bulganin, Pervukhin (whom Kuzmin especially attacked) and Saburov, all came before the congress and grovelled in proper form. But the key, original members of the group, Georgi Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov, Kaganovich and Shepilov, were all noteworthy absentees and non-grovelers. Item two fits neatly on to Item one.

ITEM: Prior to the party congress an attempt was made to transfer Khrushchev's single-most infuential enemy, Vyacheslav Molotov, from his ambassadorial post in Outer Mongolia to the Soviet Embassy to the Netherlands. In Eulan-Bator, Molotov is believed to be in close contact with the Chinese Communists, who are in turn believed to take a major stand in the inner party intrigues in the Kremlin. If Molotov had gone to The Hague, the contact with the Chinese would have been broken. But Molotov did not go, although the Dutch did not object.

ITEM: Also prior to the party congress, a much-touted plenum of the Central Committee of the party was held in Moscow. After the plenum, the absolutely unprecedented step was taken of publishing the transcript of the discussions. The main points discussed were the familiar signs of the anti-party group, and the glories of Nikata Khrushchev's agricultural program. The break with precedent implied a desire to intimidate the political opponents. And again, the absentees at the plenum were noteworthy. Those who attended were almost exclusively the provincial party leaders, who have always been mainly pro-Khrushchev. Among the key people on the heights in Moscow, only Khrushchev himself appeared and spoke.

All these items combined suggest that the enormous power now concentrated in Khrushchev's hands is only conditional power as yet. If Khrushchev has indeed tried and failed to discipline his enemies more sharply, and to ship Molotov off to The Hague, then he cannot as yet be the absolute master in the Kremlin house. He must have enough opponents, probably old Stalinists in the main, to prevent him from carrying all before him in the most crucial of all areas, the area of inner party politics.

That fact in turn undoubtedly has enormous meaning in terms of the Berlin crisis. To be sure, it may mean that Khrushchev has threatened Berlin because he had to conciliate the Stalinist advocates of a hard line. Or it may mean that Khrushchev is taking a great personal gamble, in order to win such a victory that no one will dare to oppose him.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON — From time to time Washington shows a disturbing faculty for becoming embroiled in fruitless and harmful "debates." Such a one is going on now over the question of whether our defense posture is adequate in the light of the threat we face in the Berlin crisis.

Much heat has been brought on the subject, but little light. Democrats have centered their criticisms on two facets of the United States defense plant. One, opposition to proposed reductions in the size of the Army and Marine Corps. Two, the "gap" in the number of long range missiles which the United States will have in comparison with estimates of the Soviet missile program.

Republicans generally have countered this criticism by asserting that United States defenses are adequate and that President Eisenhower, who has the ultimate responsibility, has the military experience to make correct judgments in this field.

Actually, military men know something privately that has not been brought out in the spate of words on the subject flowing out of Washington. No military position can be judged adequate or inadequate until it is put to the test of war. Germnay learned this in two world wars. The United States should have learned it in Korea.

The kind of public discussion that is now going on in Congress and elsewhere in Washington can do nothing but harm. For, as a responsible body of public opinion begins to express doubt as to our military capability, it cannot but encourage our potential enemies to be a little firmer, push a little harder in the whole area of international tensions, and in Berlin particularly,

United States Will Be In Middle Of Next Tempest In Caribbean

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson, who has been traveling through the revolt-torn Caribbean, today begins a series of columns on the problems faced by the USA in that vital area.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — If you sit on the shore of northwest Haiti and look out across that 50-mile stretch of azure blue Caribbean called the Windward Passage you would never guess that trouble lurked beyond. A native fishing boat meanders by, pushed by a home-made sail. An ocean freighter cuts a slim rift of white in the blue as it follows the route taken by British frigates, Spanish pirates, and Carib revolutionaries since the days of Columbus 450 years ago.

Barely discernible behind a clump of trees, however, and pointing out toward the 50-mile stretch of sea is a French 75 cannon of World War I. Lolling beside it are Haitian soldiers stripped to the waist, enjoying the spring sunshine. They are supposed to be guarding northwest Haiti from the new menace which worries the Caribbean — Castroism.

Just 50 miles across that blue water is Cuba's Oriente Province where Fidel Castro hid and fought. Across that passage thousands of Haitians have sailed seeking work on Oriente sugar plantations. Across that passage, three times a week until recently, have been beamed broadcasts from Radio Progreso, exhorting Haitians to rise up against President Duvalier. And from across that passage President Duvalier worries over the Haitian exiles and Haitian sugar workers and Castro's bearded warriors expected to invade his country.

USA In The Middle

The invasion might be classified as just another tempest in a country which has been racked by tempestuous revolts ever since Toussaint L'Ouverture kicked the French out of the world's first Negro republic. But for Americans it will be extremely important, for two reasons: 1—The USA will be right in the middle; 2—Castro has his eyes on the entire Caribbean.

His invasion of Haiti would not be aimed at President Francois Duvalier, the Michigan University-educated country doctor who holds uncertain reign over the black Republic, but at Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, who holds tight reign over the Dominican Republic just beyond.

Fidel Castro has sworn "death to dictators!" and Haiti is in the path of the No. 1 dictator of the Caribbean.

He also has his eyes on the son of another famous dictator, President Luis Somoza, whose swaggering Marine Corps-trained father so long ruled the tropical republic of Nicaragua.

In fact, Castro may have even larger aims. He has become an embryo Nasser of the Caribbean with an ambition to cement these strategic islands with Central America into a sort of "United Carib Republic." And just as Nasser electrified the Arab world by taking Suez, some of Castro's cohorts advise him not to stop until he has demanded the Panama Canal be operated for the benefit of Carib countries.

Dictators Vs. Democrats

This may be a long time in the making. For the moment, the lineup in the Caribbean is the Three Democrats versus the Three Dictators — President Betancourt of Venezuela, Gov. Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, and Castro, versus Somoza of Nicaragua, Duvalier of Haiti, and Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

The description is not entirely accurate, since Duvalier was elected, and Somoza has inaugurated democracy reforms, while Munoz Marin governs part of the USA. Nevertheless, in a loose way, that is the line-up of Caribbean rivalry with the United States sweating in the middle.

Our predicament results from the embarrassing fact that we don't want to back dictators, yet at the same time we can't tolerate war. Under the nonaggression pacts of the Pan American Union, the United States is pledged to intervene, with other nations, to protect any member from attack. Yet if we intervene to protect Haiti and the Dominican Republic we are put in the position of defending the No. 1 dictator of the Caribbean — Generalissimo Trujillo.

Milton Eisenhower, worried over the unpopularity of dictators, has recommended to his brother that he cut off U. S. support to dictators. He has even scrutinized the fact that we buy $68,000,000 worth of goods from dictator Trujillo every year—one-half his exports — and raised the question of whether we shouldn't cut them off.

Yet simultaneously we are pledged by Pan American treaties to protect Trujillo if he is invaded. That's our predicament.

Meanwhile, the little band of Haitian soldiers lolling in the sun around that French 75 artillery piece looking out over the azure blue of the Windward Passage can no more prevent an invasion from Cuba than a water pistol. They were completely surprised and decidedly miffed to have Bernard Diederich, editor of the Haitian Sun, walk up beyond them the other day while they were asleep.

Castro's forces could land at night and hide out just as long in the hills of Haiti as they did in the hills of Cuba's Oriente Province — which was a long time.

Editors Note — Another Pearson column on how turmoil in the Caribbean affects the USA will follow tomorrow.

A Need For Rules

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—The Federal Reserve Board is concerned about the stock market. It should be, so should the N.Y. Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange.

There are more jiggles, "pool" operations, manipulations, raiding and rumor mongering than in any period since the SEC came into being.

The four big centers of the modern version of the old time "pool" operations are:

The 7th Ave. garment area in New York City.

Las Vegas.

Miami.

Los Angeles.

The operations take financing and this is done in several ways that while maybe legal are contrary to the intent of the Federal Reserve's credit regulations as applied to banks.

These include:

Loans from commercial banks on the claim they are for non-purpose borrowing. That is not for the purpose of carrying or buying securities. Such loans can be made far below the 90 per cent margin requirements.

Loans from so-called factoring concerns with securities put up as collateral. The factoring concerns — mostly smaller, little known outfits—in turn pledged the securities with commercial banks for money which is re-lent for the same purpose.

Loans from high interest charging money lenders, who also will "discount" the loan with a commercial bank.

Loans from out-of-town banks, particularly the small institutions in outlying areas.

In addition, free use is made of Swiss banks, foreign money lenders and so-called trusts chartered in Switzerland, Tangier and Lichtenstein.

The Federal Reserve is somewhat aware of the situation, although probably not as to the full ramifications of the operation. It is seeking to tighten the regulations covering non-purpose loans and also to force non-bank lenders to file reports on loans secured by stock.

Some of the loans are financed by borrowing of business partnerships and family owned businesses. This borrowing will be done without putting up securities as collateral, but the proceeds of loans will be used for carrying a stock market operation.

At the present time there is no way of telling how big is the volume of this kind of borrowing.

One way of enforcement of the Federal Reserve non-purpose loan regulations is for the banks to require a sworn statement that such borrowing is not for buying or carrying securities.

This would permit a grand jury indictment for perjury if such non-purpose loans from a bank were used for carrying or buying securities.

Many borrowers will tell a bank they are going to buy a car, remodel a home and or make some business improvement and then turn around and buy stock.

The new day "pool" operators do it on a much bigger scale. Their borrowing runs into the hundreds of thousands. Alexander L. Guterma used a small Long Island bank to finance part of his empire building. Also a foreign money lender and a Swiss bank.

The Penn-Texas operations were financed with Swiss banks, as well as by a number of out-of-town banks.

Stock Exchange rules are being violated in many of the cases. Customers will "suggest" where financing can be obtained in this country or abroad. In a "pool" operation they will help spread rumors.

The underworld is another source of money.

The rumor mongering is reaching such proportions that this office was called by an individual claiming to be the head of a respectable investment trust. It was a "hot tip" on a stock, which the caller suggested was a good item for a "Wall Street Hears" feature.

A call to the investment trust man found he had never made the call and knew nothing about the stock being tipped.

Some press agents are finding a new, lucrative field in diseminating puff stories on highly speculative situations.

Then, there are the high pressure "boiler shop" telephone salesmen who have no regard for the truth.

Women Over 35 Need Checkup Twice A Year

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many hospital and surgical insurance plans are prepared to pay $1,000 to treat a patient with cancer at the opening (cervix) of the uterus. They do not have policies for preventing the condition yet the same amount of money that is spent on treatment would buy 100 office visits at $10 each for 50 years of semi-annual examinations.

Dr. Willis E. Brown of Little Rock makes this point in stressing the need for more public education in the field of preventive medicine. A periodic simple office examination of the pelvic structures of the breasts would detect the types of cancer that accounts for 80 per cent of the tumor deaths in women.

In this way, a malignancy could be uncovered early enough to change the cure rate from the present 40 per cent to 90 per cent without utilizing a new discovery. This means two visits a year — without fail.

This is only part of the story. Ideally, a woman's initial visit to the physician would be the premarital examination at which time the various aspects of sex and pregnancy could be discussed. The young woman would have the satisfaction of knowing she is healthy and in good physical condition, thus avoiding many of the marital problems due to ignorance of pelvic abnormalities.

The next group of routine examinations might be those associated with the pregnancy and aftercare of the new mother. The twice a year schedule should begin in earnest after age 35 and continue through 65-70.

During the mid-forties, the physician would offer premenopausal advice to help many pass through another difficult interval. The entire process is discussed thoroughly so the woman knows what to expect and how to adjust to a new way of living by taking a more positive approach to her new role in womanhood.

TOMORROW: When pockets are a nuisance.

PUBLIC EXPECTORATION

F. G. writes: Is spitting on the street against the law? It seems to me this is more important than the litterbug campaign.

REPLY

It is in some communities but not in others. This column is syndicated and receives letters from many cities, so that I hesitate to make a definite statement about any specific city.

BONE INFECTION

K. D. writes: What would cause osteomyelitis of the leg to recur after 20 years?

REPLY

This bone infection tends to recur when the part is injured or general resistance drops. However, it will be easier to bring the disease under control than it was 20 years ago, for which we can thank the antibiotics.

KIDNEY DISORDER

W. S. writes: What kind of medicine is used in treating nephrosis?

REPLY

The corticosteroids are the best remedies. The list includes drugs such as cortisone, prednisolene, and methylprednisolone. The diuretics may be used also to encourage fluid elimination.

CONCUSSION FROM FALL

Mrs. L. writes: A 2½ year old child suffered a mild concussion after a fall. There were no symptoms other than vomiting. Will such an injury affect her in some way later in life?

REPLY

There's a better than 95 per cent chance that complete recovery will occur but the die is cast and only time will tell.

PHLEBITIS

Mrs. B. writes: What causes a vein clot?

REPLY

Injury to or inflammation of the wall of the vein. Our leaflet on phlebitis covers this subject. It may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

NOT RELAXED

W. L. writes: I don't eat before going to bed but have terrifying dreams. What could cause this?

REPLY

Your mind continues to be active and you re-live the day experiences of your own and of some one else. Many persons relax before turning out the light by watching TV, listening to the radio, or reading.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Whenever he had occasion to enter the ladies' dressing room backstage at a Toronto theatre, electrician Lyle Alton fell into the habit of singing out, "Close your eyes, girls! I'm coming through!"

Variety reports that one of the girls who's been appearing in that theatre for ten solid weeks suddenly gasped with the realization that she'd been falling for the gag from the first performance on!

An angry diner at a newly opened restaurant told the waiter, "You'll never get by with portions like this. I don't think I've seen a smaller piece of steak in my life." "You're right," agreed the conciliatory waiter, "but I think it will take you a good long time to eat it."

A draftee of Italian lineage dropped into a South Carolina beanery and asked if he could have a pizza pie. "Sho 'nuff," said the waitress politely. "Would yo-all like a pizza apple, peach, or cherry pie?"

Lakers Renew Series With Hawks Tonight

Films Show Injured Martin Was Elbowed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —St. Louis Hawks Coach Ed Macauley charged Monday the Minneapolis Lakers "are trying to cripple us" and backed up his statement with a movie film he said "shows specifically" that injured player Slater Martin was elbowed in last Saturday's game.

The charge came as the two teams were even up in the Western series playoffs of the National Basketball Assn. championship. They play the third game here Tuesday night.

Martin, playmaker of the team, suffered a dislocated right knee Saturday night when the Hawks downed the Lakers 124-90 here in the first game of best four out of seven. Minneapolis surged back Sunday to defeat St. Louis 106-98 amid heckling from the Lakers' bench and fisticuffs.

Referring to the Saturday game Macauley said, "We have films that show specifically that Martin was tripped and then elbowed by Eddie Fleming, the Lakers guard."

Martin, whose right leg is in a cast, was expected to miss the entire series.

A win Tuesday night would give the Hawks an edge when the two teams return north for the fourth game. The winner of the series will meet the Eastern Division champ—either the Boston Celtics or the Syracuse Nationals.

Wilt led the scorers of the league this season with an average of 22.21 by scoring 422 points in 19 games.

Fort Hill's league schedule is as follows:

May 1 — Flintstone, home. May 5—Allegany, home. May 8—Mt. Savage, away. May 11—LaSalle, home. May 15—Valley, home. May 19—Beall, away. May 22—Bruce, home. May 26 — Flintstone, away. May 29—Allegany, away.

Lakers Renew Series With Hawks Tonight

Films Show Injured Martin Was Elbowed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —St. Louis Hawks Coach Ed Macauley charged Monday the Minneapolis Lakers "are trying to cripple us" and backed up his statement with a movie film he said "shows specifically" that injured player Slater Martin was elbowed in last Saturday's game.

The charge came as the two teams were even up in the Western series playoffs of the National Basketball Assn. championship. They play the third game here Tuesday night.

Martin, playmaker of the team, suffered a dislocated right knee Saturday night when the Hawks downed the Lakers 124-90 here in the first game of best four out of seven. Minneapolis surged back Sunday to defeat St. Louis 106-98 amid heckling from the Lakers' bench and fisticuffs.

Referring to the Saturday game Macauley said, "We have films that show specifically that Martin was tripped and then elbowed by Eddie Fleming, the Lakers guard."

Martin, whose right leg is in a cast, was expected to miss the entire series.

A win Tuesday night would give the Hawks an edge when the two teams return north for the fourth game. The winner of the series will meet the Eastern Division champ—either the Boston Celtics or the Syracuse Nationals.

Middlecoff Cops Florida Golf Title

Wins St. Petersburg Open With Card 275

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, who said he was just using the event as "a trial run for the Masters," shot a three-under-par 69 in the final round Monday to win the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole total of 275, 13 under par.

The erstwhile Memphis dentist, now playing out of Hollywood, Fla., had not entered a tournament since undergoing a hernia operation last September, and he wanted to find out if he could stand up under the grind, and if his game still was sharp.

The answer was yes to both questions. He finished fresh, and his four rounds of 70-69-67-69 proved he hasn't lost his touch.

Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., who started the day at 205, leading Middlecoff and the field by one stroke, lost his margin on the first hole when he took a bogey to Middlecoff's par.

Pete Cooper, Lakeland, Fla., finished second with a 278.

Goalby took third with 280.

George Bayer of Gleneagles, Ill., came in with a 70 for a 282 total and a tie with Wes Ellis of Aldecress, N.J., and Gene Littler of Singinghills, Calif., for fourth place.

Red Schoendienst To Leave Hospital

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Red Schoendienst leaves a tuberculosis hospital here Tuesday with the stubborn courage that he hopes will return him to the Milwaukee Braves as their star second baseman.

"I did everything they told me," the redhead said, "and my tests show negative now."

Red began treatment for a tuberculer right lung Nov. 8 and underwent surgery to remove the infected portion Feb. 19. He has remained confined at Mt. St. Rose Hospital since last fall.

"I never asked the doctor too much," he said. "Then when he came in this morning he asked me, 'do you want to get out of here.' I said I was ready.

Schoendienst said he would return to his home on strict rest periods for several weeks, working "to build myself up."

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Serious injuries to the two top members of the cast won't stop the San Francisco Giants this year — but the pitching might.

The auto accident injury to manager Bill Rigney in Berkeley, Calif., has kept Bill in civvies in camp and on a diet of mush and the training camp leg injury requiring 35 stitches has sidelined Willie Mays but both will be ready by opening day. Whether the pitchers will be is something else.

Rig carries a set of pliers around with him just in case he has to snip the wires in his broken jaw if he should start to choke but it's easy to pry loose information from the former Giants' shortstop despite the muzzle on his mouth.

"Pitching will be our main concern," says Bill, adding, "our defense and offense will be better and we're pretty well fortified in the infield and outfield."

The pitching woes not only come from a letdown witnessed by the slabmen in the second half of the 1958 season just when the Giants were giving the Braves a battle for it all but because two of their top flingers last year present real problems this season.

Ramon Monzant, the Venezuelan star who was 8-11 last year, announced he was through with baseball and no word has been heard from him as of this writing. Al Worthington, who won 11 games for the Giants last year, first was a holdout and then came up with an inflamed knee which almost required an operation.

Rig, who quips about his eating habits of "drinking an eight-course meal every day" — he has to grind up all his food — will go with Johnny Antonelli, Jack Sanford (from the Phils), Mike McCormick and Stu Miller, with Curt Barclay next in line. Barclay won 12 for Phoenix last year and one game for the Giants in six appearances.

Miller, former Cardinal who was 6-9 with the Giants last year, has looked the best of all in camp.

Rig is counting on Joe Shipley, who was with Phoenix, for pitching help. And, also being looked at are two big bonus pitchers, Mike Lee, from Los Angeles, and Gaylord Perry, who was at St. Cloud last year. Total take of these two boys is reported at over $150,000.

The catchers are Hobie Landrith and Bob Schmidt with a rookie, Al Stieglitz, expected to make the grade this year.

The outfield is loaded with speed and power, headed by the one and only Willie Mays, who is expected to get back in action in the near future. Most improved player in the garden is Felipe Alou, who split last season between the parent club and the Phoenix Giants.

"This boy," says Rig, "can do most anything. He can run and throw and he hits the ball well."

Willie Kirkland, who started off with a bank as a rookie last year, is back as an outfielder and the competition in the garden will be fierce with Hank Sauer, Whitey Lockman, Leon Wagner and Don Taussig in the battle. Kirkland, Wagner and Taussig spent part of last season with Phoenix.

In an effort to add some maneuverability in the infield Rig is giving the 1958 National League "rookie of the year," Orlando Cepeda, a workout at third base although Orlando is a first sacker. If Cepeda should play third, Bill White will be the first sacker.

Daryl Spencer, who can play several infield spots, is being worked at second and Andre Rodgers is ticketed for short. Rodgers, who had a big year at Phoenix after being sent to the minors last year, has been powering the ball in camp.

Jim Davenport and Ray Jablonski are the third sackers if Cepeda stays on first and for fill-ins in the infield there are Eddie Bressoud, Danny O'Connell and Ben Valenzuela.

Salty Parker, one of the Giants' fine coaches, has been handling the team as Rig recuperates.

Righthander Creates Buzz In Chicubs' Camp Contests

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — A 22-year-old pitcher is creating quite a buzz in the Chicago Cubs camp here.

Appropriately enough, his name is John (Buzz) Buzhardt, who already has three major league victories to his credit against no losses—compiled at the end of the 1958 season.

John Buzhardt

The 195-pound righthander was brought up by the Cubs from Portland in September last year and won his first big league game in a relief appearance against the Phillies. Before the season ended he had whipped the Dodgers twice, limiting the Bums to just three runs in two games.

Manager Bob Scheffing of the Cubs has high hopes that Buzhardt will help his mediocre pitching staff this year.

Buzhardt hails from a little town of Prosperity, S. C., where he pitched and played first base for the Prosperity High team. On the sandlots he was pretty hot, too, but as a batter for he hit .411, which brought him a semi-pro chance.

Rube Wilson, a Cub scout, spotted Buzz and signed him to a contract in June, 1954, giving the youngster a bonus of $500.

The same year Buzz was sent to Hickory but the league folded after three weeks. He moved on to Gainesville, Tex., where he was 8-6 for the rest of the year.

In 1055 he pitched for Paris, Ill., compiling a 13-14 record. Next stop was Twin Falls, where he won 18 games. The big jump to Memphis was next, then to Des Moines and finally Portland last year. Buzz had won nine games for Portland when he was brought up.

During the winter season, Buzz played in Cuba. His record was a good one—10-10—considering he pitched for last-place team.

Married and with one son, Buzz spends the off season hunting and fishing.

His dad is a guard on a county chain gang in South Carolina.

Ted Williams Remains Idle

Slugger Has Painful Catch In Shoulder

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Slugger Ted Williams remained sidelined Monday with a painful catch in his right shoulder and took treatments from trainer Jack Fadden.

"I feel about the same as I did yesterday," said Ted. "I can't do anything until this clears up. I had it about a week, but it never bothered me much until yesterday in Tucson."

Ted made a game effort to play Sunday as 5,000 fans turned out. He took a shot of cortisone and one of novocaine in an effort to play a few innings.

But it was no use and Manager Mike Higgins ordered him to rest.

The hospital list was impressive. On it were most valuable player Jackie Jensen, recovering from the removal of an impacted wisdom tooth; second baseman Pete Runnels with a throat infection; third baseman Frank Malzone, with a sore arm; catcher Eddie Sadowski, with an eye infection and Vic Wertz with a groin pull.

Olymar Scores At Gulfstream

MIAMI, Fa., March 23 (AP)—Fred W. Hooper's Olymar outgamed his rivals through the stretch today for a neck decision in the $3,600 Indian Creek Purse before 13,402 bettors at Gulfstream Park.

The $5 co-favorite bested Old Rose Farm's First Fair in 1:09 3/5 for six furlongs. Hasty House Farm's Alarullah, equal choice with the winner, was a half length behind First Fair and five lengths ahead of Little General, representing C. H. Wacker 3rd.

Grant Wins Four In Row

Has 39 Victories Out Of 101 Mounts

BOWIE, Md., March 23 (AP)—Howard Grant, who established a Bowie riding record last Thursday when he brought home six winners, bounced back this afternoon with another big day, scoring in four consecutive races.

Included in his quartet of victories was a two-length win with Chasmar Flash in the $4,000 Barclay Purse. The 3-year-old colt went off odds-on favorite with the crowd of 9,548 fans and posted a $3.60 mutuel.

Grant's other wins were with Lil' Mac ($5.80), Porter Grata ($3.40) and Guardian II ($4.60).

Although he has ridden in only fifteen of the 38 programs held here, Grant is the meeting's leading rider with 39 victories out of 101 mounts.

Guardian II took the mile and a sixteenth eighth race under Grant, marking the fourth consecutive Monday on which he has come home a winner.

But in his first two winning efforts he was disqualified for stretch interference.

Philley's Grand Slam Homer Sinks St. Louis

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Dave Philley's grand - slam pinch homer featured a seven-run eighth inning during which the Philadelphia Phillies came from behind Monday to crush the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-5, and spoil Sal Maglie's first pitching appearance of the spring.

Middlecoff Cops Florida Golf Title

Wins St. Petersburg Open With Card 275

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, who said he was just using the event as "a trial run for the Masters," shot a three-under-par 69 in the final round Monday to win the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole total of 275, 13 under par.

The erstwhile Memphis dentist, now playing out of Hollywood, Fla., had not entered a tournament since undergoing a hernia operation last September, and he wanted to find out if he could stand up under the grind, and if his game still was sharp.

The answer was yes to both questions. He finished fresh, and his four rounds of 70-69-67-69 proved he hasn't lost his touch.

Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., who started the day at 205, leading Middlecoff and the field by one stroke, lost his margin on the first hole when he took a bogey to Middlecoff's par.

Pete Cooper, Lakeland, Fla., finished second with a 278.

Goalby took third with 280.

George Bayer of Gleneagles, Ill., came in with a 70 for a 282 total and a tie with Wes Ellis of Aldecress, N.J., and Gene Littler of Singinghills, Calif., for fourth place.

Red Schoendienst To Leave Hospital

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Red Schoendienst leaves a tuberculosis hospital here Tuesday with the stubborn courage that he hopes will return him to the Milwaukee Braves as their star second baseman.

"I did everything they told me," the redhead said, "and my tests show negative now."

Red began treatment for a tuberculer right lung Nov. 8 and underwent surgery to remove the infected portion Feb. 19. He has remained confined at Mt. St. Rose Hospital since last fall.

"I never asked the doctor too much," he said. "Then when he came in this morning he asked me, 'do you want to get out of here.' I said I was ready.

Schoendienst said he would return to his home on strict rest periods for several weeks, working "to build myself up."

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Serious injuries to the two top members of the cast won't stop the San Francisco Giants this year — but the pitching might.

The auto accident injury to manager Bill Rigney in Berkeley, Calif., has kept Bill in civvies in camp and on a diet of mush and the training camp leg injury requiring 35 stitches has sidelined Willie Mays but both will be ready by opening day. Whether the pitchers will be is something else.

Rig carries a set of pliers around with him just in case he has to snip the wires in his broken jaw if he should start to choke but it's easy to pry loose information from the former Giants' shortstop despite the muzzle on his mouth.

"Pitching will be our main concern," says Bill, adding, "our defense and offense will be better and we're pretty well fortified in the infield and outfield."

The pitching woes not only come from a letdown witnessed by the slabmen in the second half of the 1958 season just when the Giants were giving the Braves a battle for it all but because two of their top flingers last year present real problems this season.

Ramon Monzant, the Venezuelan star who was 8-11 last year, announced he was through with baseball and no word has been heard from him as of this writing. Al Worthington, who won 11 games for the Giants last year, first was a holdout and then came up with an inflamed knee which almost required an operation.

Rig, who quips about his eating habits of "drinking an eight-course meal every day" — he has to grind up all his food — will go with Johnny Antonelli, Jack Sanford (from the Phils), Mike McCormick and Stu Miller, with Curt Barclay next in line. Barclay won 12 for Phoenix last year and one game for the Giants in six appearances.

Miller, former Cardinal who was 6-9 with the Giants last year, has looked the best of all in camp.

Rig is counting on Joe Shipley, who was with Phoenix, for pitching help. And, also being looked at are two big bonus pitchers, Mike Lee, from Los Angeles, and Gaylord Perry, who was at St. Cloud last year. Total take of these two boys is reported at over $150,000.

The catchers are Hobie Landrith and Bob Schmidt with a rookie, Al Stieglitz, expected to make the grade this year.

The outfield is loaded with speed and power, headed by the one and only Willie Mays, who is expected to get back in action in the near future. Most improved player in the garden is Felipe Alou, who split last season between the parent club and the Phoenix Giants.

"This boy," says Rig, "can do most anything. He can run and throw and he hits the ball well."

Willie Kirkland, who started off with a bank as a rookie last year, is back as an outfielder and the competition in the garden will be fierce with Hank Sauer, Whitey Lockman, Leon Wagner and Don Taussig in the battle. Kirkland, Wagner and Taussig spent part of last season with Phoenix.

In an effort to add some maneuverability in the infield Rig is giving the 1958 National League "rookie of the year," Orlando Cepeda, a workout at third base although Orlando is a first sacker. If Cepeda should play third, Bill White will be the first sacker.

Daryl Spencer, who can play several infield spots, is being worked at second and Andre Rodgers is ticketed for short. Rodgers, who had a big year at Phoenix after being sent to the minors last year, has been powering the ball in camp.

Jim Davenport and Ray Jablonski are the third sackers if Cepeda stays on first and for fill-ins in the infield there are Eddie Bressoud, Danny O'Connell and Ben Valenzuela.

Salty Parker, one of the Giants' fine coaches, has been handling the team as Rig recuperates.

Righthander Creates Buzz In Chicubs' Camp Contests

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — A 22-year-old pitcher is creating quite a buzz in the Chicago Cubs camp here.

Appropriately enough, his name is John (Buzz) Buzhardt, who already has three major league victories to his credit against no losses—compiled at the end of the 1958 season.

The 195-pound righthander was brought up by the Cubs from Portland in September last year and won his first big league game in a relief appearance against the Phillies. Before the season ended he had whipped the Dodgers twice, limiting the Bums to just three runs in two games.

Manager Bob Scheffing of the Cubs has high hopes that Buzhardt will help his mediocre pitching staff this year.

Buzhardt hails from a little town of Prosperity, S. C., where he pitched and played first base for the Prosperity High team. On the sandlots he was pretty hot, too, but as a batter for he hit .411, which brought him a semi-pro chance.

Rube Wilson, a Cub scout, spotted Buzz and signed him to a contract in June, 1954, giving the youngster a bonus of $500.

The same year Buzz was sent to Hickory but the league folded after three weeks. He moved on to Gainesville, Tex., where he was 8-6 for the rest of the year.

In 1055 he pitched for Paris, Ill., compiling a 13-14 record. Next stop was Twin Falls, where he won 18 games. The big jump to Memphis was next, then to Des Moines and finally Portland last year. Buzz had won nine games for Portland when he was brought up.

During the winter season, Buzz played in Cuba. His record was a good one—10-10—considering he pitched for last-place team.

Married and with one son, Buzz spends the off season hunting and fishing.

His dad is a guard on a county chain gang in South Carolina.

Ted Williams Remains Idle

Slugger Has Painful Catch In Shoulder

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Slugger Ted Williams remained sidelined Monday with a painful catch in his right shoulder and took treatments from trainer Jack Fadden.

"I feel about the same as I did yesterday," said Ted. "I can't do anything until this clears up. I had it about a week, but it never bothered me much until yesterday in Tucson."

Ted made a game effort to play Sunday as 5,000 fans turned out. He took a shot of cortisone and one of novocaine in an effort to play a few innings.

But it was no use and Manager Mike Higgins ordered him to rest.

The hospital list was impressive. On it were most valuable player Jackie Jensen, recovering from the removal of an impacted wisdom tooth; second baseman Pete Runnels with a throat infection; third baseman Frank Malzone, with a sore arm; catcher Eddie Sadowski, with an eye infection and Vic Wertz with a groin pull.

Grant Wins Four In Row

Has 39 Victories Out Of 101 Mounts

BOWIE, Md., March 23 (AP)—Howard Grant, who established a Bowie riding record last Thursday when he brought home six winners, bounced back this afternoon with another big day, scoring in four consecutive races.

Included in his quartet of victories was a two-length win with Chasmar Flash in the $4,000 Barclay Purse. The 3-year-old colt went off odds-on favorite with the crowd of 9,548 fans and posted a $3.60 mutuel.

Grant's other wins were with Lil' Mac ($5.80), Porter Grata ($3.40) and Guardian II ($4.60).

Although he has ridden in only fifteen of the 38 programs held here, Grant is the meeting's leading rider with 39 victories out of 101 mounts.

Guardian II took the mile and a sixteenth eighth race under Grant, marking the fourth consecutive Monday on which he has come home a winner.

But in his first two winning efforts he was disqualified for stretch interference.

Lincoln Downs Double Payoff Is $1,079.40

LINCOLN, R. I., March 23 (AP) — A $1,079.40 daily double payoff, second highest of the meeting, was registered at Lincoln Downs today and it would have been even higher but for a horse that ran off during the post parade for the second race and was ordered scratched.

After Mrs. Frank Calcagni's 45 to 1 Ringrier was withdrawn a consolation double payoff was necessary and that cut the winning double on J. G. Kataculos' Devil River, winner of the first and Tom Doolan's Spirit Of Win, which took the second, from $1,106.00.

There were 52 two-dollar tickets sold on the winning double and 27 two-dollar tickets combining Devil's River and Ringrier. The consolation double payoff was $51.20. Had Ringrier won the second the double payoff would have been $2,130.20.

The highest double thus far at the meeting was $1,269.80.

Shipbuilding Rises

BELGRADE (UPI) — Government officials said Monday Yugoslavia had bettered its pre-World War II shipbuilding industry. Last year Yugoslav shipyards built 36 large ships, with deliveries going to such nations as Britain, Czechlovakia, Egypt, Liberia, Sweden and Switzerland.

It is believed the art of knitting originated in Scotland about the beginning of the 16th century.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠.

Declarer was the victim of an unlucky break when two finesses went wrong in the play of today's slam contract. However he could have improved his chances materially by refusing one of the finesses in favor of a simple strip and end play.

The bidding was logical. North's jump raise to game in his partner's secondary suit was a trifle drastic with four trumps headed by just the ten, but he felt that a bid of just three hearts was not adequate. South commenced Blackwood proceedings and when all the aces were accounted for, he asked for kings. This query received a completely negative answer, so South signed off at six hearts.

West led the deuce of spades and the queen held in dummy. Declarer cashed a high heart, crossed to dummy with a club and finessed the jack of hearts. The queen won and, on a diamond shift, declarer had no choice but to take the finesse. When it lost he uttered the appropriate oaths.

The loss of both finesses does not really amount to a hex, for South can circumvent nature's evil plot by playing with somewhat greater care. He should refuse the trump finesse and cash a second high heart. When the queen falls all is serene.

But if the opposition fails to oblige, South merely cashes the ace of spades and proceeds to run the clubs. If the holder of the queen of hearts fails to trump in South gets out with a heart. If the queen is with East where it was originally finessed, East will have to return a diamond into the ace-queen. If West has the queen of hearts, the diamond finesse still will be available to declarer.

Lincoln Downs Double Payoff Is $1,079.40

LINCOLN, R. I., March 23 (AP) — A $1,079.40 daily double payoff, second highest of the meeting, was registered at Lincoln Downs today and it would have been even higher but for a horse that ran off during the post parade for the second race and was ordered scratched.

After Mrs. Frank Calcagni's 45 to 1 Ringrier was withdrawn a consolation double payoff was necessary and that cut the winning double on J. G. Kataculos' Devil River, winner of the first and Tom Doolan's Spirit Of Win, which took the second, from $1,106.00.

There were 52 two-dollar tickets sold on the winning double and 27 two-dollar tickets combining Devil's River and Ringrier. The consolation double payoff was $51.20. Had Ringrier won the second the double payoff would have been $2,130.20.

The highest double thus far at the meeting was $1,269.80.

Shipbuilding Rises

BELGRADE (UPI) — Government officials said Monday Yugoslavia had bettered its pre-World War II shipbuilding industry. Last year Yugoslav shipyards built 36 large ships, with deliveries going to such nations as Britain, Czechlovakia, Egypt, Liberia, Sweden and Switzerland.

It is believed the art of knitting originated in Scotland about the beginning of the 16th century.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠.

Declarer was the victim of an unlucky break when two finesses went wrong in the play of today's slam contract. However he could have improved his chances materially by refusing one of the finesses in favor of a simple strip and end play.

The bidding was logical. North's jump raise to game in his partner's secondary suit was a trifle drastic with four trumps headed by just the ten, but he felt that a bid of just three hearts was not adequate. South commenced Blackwood proceedings and when all the aces were accounted for, he asked for kings. This query received a completely negative answer, so South signed off at six hearts.

West led the deuce of spades and the queen held in dummy. Declarer cashed a high heart, crossed to dummy with a club and finessed the jack of hearts. The queen won and, on a diamond shift, declarer had no choice but to take the finesse. When it lost he uttered the appropriate oaths.

The loss of both finesses does not really amount to a hex, for South can circumvent nature's evil plot by playing with somewhat greater care. He should refuse the trump finesse and cash a second high heart. When the queen falls all is serene.

But if the opposition fails to oblige, South merely cashes the ace of spades and proceeds to run the clubs. If the holder of the queen of hearts fails to trump in South gets out with a heart. If the queen is with East where it was originally finessed, East will have to return a diamond into the ace-queen. If West has the queen of hearts, the diamond finesse still will be available to declarer.

Public Hearing Necessary For Rifle Club Well

Because of a legal technicality, the State Department of Geology, Mines and Natural Resources must conduct a public hearing at 11 a. m. Thursday, April 2, at Johns Hopkins University on an application of Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club Inc. to use a well taking a daily average of three gallons of ground water.

Norman O. White, secretary-treasurer of the club, explained yesterday that the County Health Department ordinarily grants permits for wells. However, because the club could not clasify as either a home or farm use, the state department must conduct a public hearing in compliance with the provisions of Chapter 526, Acts of 1933.

The Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club Inc. has made application for a permit to use a minimum of no gallons, a maximum of ten gallons and an average of three gallons of water daily during the 12 months. This well would have a diameter of five-and-one-half inches and a depth of about 100 feet and would be located on the club grounds along Morningside Drive about three-quarters of a mile from Naves Crossroad.

Motorist Held Under $500 Bond

A Cumberland motorist is being held on $500 bond in Allegany County Jail after his hearing on three motor vehicle charges yesterday was continued by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

James Kenneth Raines, 504 Decatur Street, was arrested shortly after midnight Sunday by city police, who said they had to chase him several blocks when he fled in his automobile in South End.

Officers Harold Gibson, James Swann and J. A. Brown gave chase after spotting a car weaving along Virginia Avenue, nearly striking the underpass. The officers said the car later was found parked along a side street and they said they saw Raines fleeing from the scene.

Officer Brown gave chase on foot and finally cornered the man in a dead-end alleyway, the policeman said.

At yesterday's hearing in Trial Magistrates Court the defendant told Magistrate Dick he was not driving the car which was identified as his.

Dick continued the case and ordered Raines held on bond until the man he said was the driver can be brought in as a witness.

VA Explains How To File Death Claims

As more disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict die, more problems are posed to the Veterans Administration by survivors, according to Samuel J. Weston, local contact officer for the VA at the post office here.

The Veterans Administration, Mr. Weston said, offers four major suggestions to survivors of deceased veterans in filing claims for death compensation or pension.

By following these suggestions, he noted, survivors will expedite handling of their claims by VA:

(1) If the veteran's death certificate does not contain a statement as to the cause of death, it should be accompanied by a certificate from the attending physician, showing dates of treatment and cause of death.

(2) A widow filing a claim should furnish the record of her marriage to the veteran. If she or the veteran were previously married, she should furnish copies of the death or divorce certificates to establish that previous marriages were dissolved.

(3) If minor children are among the survivors, birth records are required, containing the names of both parents and dates of birth. If a child was adopted, a copy of the court order of adoption is needed.

(4) Parents filing a claim must establish their relationship to the veteran by furnishing VA with a certified copy of the veteran's birth certificate containing the names of both parents, and they also must provide evidence of their dependency. This evidence is required by the laws governing compensation and pension payments, Mr. Weston noted.

Woman Sentenced On Neglect Charge

A local woman was found guilty of neglect of her four children and sentenced to six months in the State Reformatory for Women following a hearing yesterday in Juvenile Court.

The case was prosecuted by Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, and Mrs. Self was represented by Earl E. Mange, local attorney.

Firemen Respond To Two Alarms

City firemen answered two alarms yesterday with West Side Fire Company extinguishing a flue fire at 36 Greene Street while Central Fire Company's hook-and-ladder went to 36 Howard Street.

There was no damage reported in the flue fire at the Medical Building on Greene Street. Firemen answered the call at 3:03 p. m. and returned 15 minutes later.

Public Hearing Necessary For Rifle Club Well

Because of a legal technicality, the State Department of Geology, Mines and Natural Resources must conduct a public hearing at 11 a. m. Thursday, April 2, at Johns Hopkins University on an application of Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club Inc. to use a well taking a daily average of three gallons of ground water.

Norman O. White, secretary-treasurer of the club, explained yesterday that the County Health Department ordinarily grants permits for wells. However, because the club could not clasify as either a home or farm use, the state department must conduct a public hearing in compliance with the provisions of Chapter 526, Acts of 1933.

The Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club Inc. has made application for a permit to use a minimum of no gallons, a maximum of ten gallons and an average of three gallons of water daily during the 12 months. This well would have a diameter of five-and-one-half inches and a depth of about 100 feet and would be located on the club grounds along Morningside Drive about three-quarters of a mile from Naves Crossroad.

Motorist Held Under $500 Bond

A Cumberland motorist is being held on $500 bond in Allegany County Jail after his hearing on three motor vehicle charges yesterday was continued by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

James Kenneth Raines, 504 Decatur Street, was arrested shortly after midnight Sunday by city police, who said they had to chase him several blocks when he fled in his automobile in South End.

Officers Harold Gibson, James Swann and J. A. Brown gave chase after spotting a car weaving along Virginia Avenue, nearly striking the underpass. The officers said the car later was found parked along a side street and they said they saw Raines fleeing from the scene.

Officer Brown gave chase on foot and finally cornered the man in a dead-end alleyway, the policeman said.

At yesterday's hearing in Trial Magistrates Court the defendant told Magistrate Dick he was not driving the car which was identified as his.

Dick continued the case and ordered Raines held on bond until the man he said was the driver can be brought in as a witness.

VA Explains How To File Death Claims

As more disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict die, more problems are posed to the Veterans Administration by survivors, according to Samuel J. Weston, local contact officer for the VA at the post office here.

The Veterans Administration, Mr. Weston said, offers four major suggestions to survivors of deceased veterans in filing claims for death compensation or pension.

By following these suggestions, he noted, survivors will expedite handling of their claims by VA:

(1) If the veteran's death certificate does not contain a statement as to the cause of death, it should be accompanied by a certificate from the attending physician, showing dates of treatment and cause of death.

(2) A widow filing a claim should furnish the record of her marriage to the veteran. If she or the veteran were previously married, she should furnish copies of the death or divorce certificates to establish that previous marriages were dissolved.

(3) If minor children are among the survivors, birth records are required, containing the names of both parents and dates of birth. If a child was adopted, a copy of the court order of adoption is needed.

(4) Parents filing a claim must establish their relationship to the veteran by furnishing VA with a certified copy of the veteran's birth certificate containing the names of both parents, and they also must provide evidence of their dependency. This evidence is required by the laws governing compensation and pension payments, Mr. Weston noted.

Market Takes Sharp Dip; Steels, Coppers Hit Hard

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered a 2.5 billion dollar setback on selling centered chiefly in the steel and copper shares and recent favorites such as the electronics and chemicals issues.

Volume ran 70,000 shares below Friday's 3,770,000-share turnover, but tickets were running late on the downside at the close when attempts at recovery failed to take hold.

The market got off to a shaky start with steels under pressure on reports that the steady production increase of recent weeks was slowing—a report confirmed in the American Iron & Steel Institute weekly report which showed a slight dip scheduled for this week's all-time record.

With copper imports selling below U.S. levels and with demand for the metal reported to be slackening, copper shares were hit. Profit-taking made itself felt in the electronics and chemical groups. Realizing cut last week's upside feature, Philadelphia & Reading, more than 7 points on the heels of announcement of new acquisitions by the company.

Motors and oils were lower on balance. Rails had declines running around a point in several issues.

Aircrafts stood out as the chief bright spot in the market as several large government contract awards were announced.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains, with the exception of wheat which was mixed, closed firm Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat ended the day up ⅝ to off ⅞; corn up ⅛ to ½; oats up ⅜; new oats up ⅜ to ¾; rye unchanged to up ⅜; soybeans up ¼ to ⅞.

There was activity in wheat toward the close which pushed the May contract up ⅝ cent. But with leading longs on both sides of the market, other positions declined from ⅝ cent in December to ⅞ in the July. Scattered commission house buying was the firming factor in May, particularly in the absence of any selling pressure. Late liquidation also helped push down new crops.

A mixed trade in the spot market left the basis 1 cent lower to 2 cents higher.

Corn was generally steady throughout the session until light offerings and stop-loss buying firmed the deferred. September gained ½ cent; December did the same. May and July moved about ¼ cent higher.

In oats, both old and new crops, the trend was consistently toward firmness. May, July and September gained ⅜ cent; new July ¾ and December ⅜ cent on the bushel. Commission house demand was strong.

Processor buying firmed soybeans, edging May up ⅜ and July ⅝ cent. The price upturn in meal was also a factor. Deferred contracts did well, gaining an average of ¾ cent.

In little export trade, reports had it that Yugoslavia took about 462,000 bushels of hard wheat. No sales were listed in corn, but talk circulated that Norway wanted a cargo, and that Denmark was inquiring about a cargo of beans.

Grains at outside markets were about steady. The range:

"BUT, MOM, I GOTTA!"

Market Takes Sharp Dip; Steels, Coppers Hit Hard

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered a 2.5 billion dollar setback on selling centered chiefly in the steel and copper shares and recent favorites such as the electronics and chemicals issues.

Volume ran 70,000 shares below Friday's 3,770,000-share turnover, but tickets were running late on the downside at the close when attempts at recovery failed to take hold.

The market got off to a shaky start with steels under pressure on reports that the steady production increase of recent weeks was slowing—a report confirmed in the American Iron & Steel Institute weekly report which showed a slight dip scheduled for this week's all-time record.

With copper imports selling below U.S. levels and with demand for the metal reported to be slackening, copper shares were hit. Profit-taking made itself felt in the electronics and chemical groups. Realizing cut last week's upside feature, Philadelphia & Reading, more than 7 points on the heels of announcement of new acquisitions by the company.

Motors and oils were lower on balance. Rails had declines running around a point in several issues.

Aircrafts stood out as the chief bright spot in the market as several large government contract awards were announced.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains, with the exception of wheat which was mixed, closed firm Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat ended the day up ⅝ to off ⅞; corn up ⅛ to ½; oats up ⅜; new oats up ⅜ to ¾; rye unchanged to up ⅝; soybeans up ¼ to ⅞.

There was activity in wheat toward the close which pushed the May contract up ⅝ cent. But with leading longs on both sides of the market, other positions declined from ⅝ cent in December to ⅞ in the July. Scattered commission house buying was the firming factor in May, particularly in the absence of any selling pressure. Late liquidation also helped push down new crops.

A mixed trade in the spot market left the basis 1 cent lower to 2 cents higher.

Corn was generally steady throughout the session until light offerings and stop-loss buying firmed the deferred. September gained ½ cent; December did the same. May and July moved about ¼ cent higher.

In oats, both old and new crops, the trend was consistently toward firmness. May, July and September gained ⅜ cent; new July ¾ and December ⅜ cent on the bushel. Commission house demand was strong.

Processor buying firmed soybeans, edging May up ⅜ and July ⅝ cent. The price upturn in meal was also a factor. Deferred contracts did well, gaining an average of ¾ cent.

In little export trade, reports had it that Yugoslavia took about 462,000 bushels of hard wheat. No sales were listed in corn, but talk circulated that Norway wanted a cargo, and that Denmark was inquiring about a cargo of beans.

Grains at outside markets were about steady. The range:

Kelly Access Proposal Will Be Discussed

Meeting Planned Thursday Morning

Proposals for additional access facilities to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant from the Cumberland Thruway will be discussed at a meeting Thursday at 10:30 a. m. in City Hall.

Attending the meeting in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech will be officials of the Kelly plant, the State Roads Commission, Green Associates and the City of Cumberland.

Expected to attend the meeting arranged by the SRC are John J McMullen, chairman, and George Geary, of the SRC's District 6 office here: George B. Newman, Kelly president, and Charles Herath, Kelly engineer; Marshall McCord, of Green Associates, designers of the Thruway, and the Mayor and Council, city solicitor and city engineer.

The local tire plant has proposed that additional access facilities be provided to Kelly Boulevard, near the B&O underpass, for use during emergencies.

Mr. McMullen notified the Mayor and Council recently that engineering studies and cost estimates were being prepared so the proposal could be properly considered.

Plans were being made yesterday for a meeting early in April of the advisory committee on Thruway lighting.

Engineers from three industrial plants have been studying the Thruway plans and have indicated they are ready to make some recommendations.

Lighting of the Thruway is a local obligation and the City wants to come up with a plan which would be the most satisfactory and economical on a long range basis.

Medical Care Costs Here Hit Record High

Entire Program Is On Schedule

The cost of the Medical Care Program reached $18,132.80 in Allegany County during January.

The cost was the highest in the 23 counties of Maryland and the Allegany County Health Department believes it was probably the highest since the program was instituted in 1945.

Medical Care is financed by state funds to provide medical services for the indigent and medically indigent.

The January Medical Care expenses included $6,021.40 for physician's fees, $10,798.40 for payments to pharmacists and $1,313 for dental fees.

During the first seven months of the fiscal year, Medical Care cost $81,373.65 in Allegany County.

Two Groups Eligible

The program cost $12,240.66 in Baltimore County during January, $11,503.36 in Montgomery County and $8,117.63 in neighboring Washington County.

Expenses for the 23 counties totaled $565,268 by the end of January, just about on schedule and leaving $397,128 to meet costs during the February through June period.

Two groups are eligible for the free medical, drug and dental services. Those carried on the relief rolls are automatically entitled to Medical Care services. The medically indigent, those whose incomes are insufficient to provide adequate medical services, are placed on the rolls from time to time and according to their needs.

Identification cards are issued by the Health Department to those accepted for the Medical Care Program.

Maryland First

Medical Care patients may use the services of any licensed physician and are eligible for a number of special services such as X-rays and laboratory tests, if these are not available through the Health Department.

Physicians serve Medical Care patients for reduced fees and a relatively small mark-up is allowed on drug bills.

The program cared for about two per cent of the population in 1955-56 and at a per capita cost of 50 cents for each Maryland citizen.

The plan to provide medical services to those who cannot afford to pay was pioneered by Maryland and has since been adopted by a number of states.

Cabinet Plant At Ellerslie In Operation

New Company Plans To Make Furniture

The cabinet plant located in the old pottery building at Ellerslie has been purchased by a newly formed corporation and has reopened.

The new firm, already employing 10 persons with an expectancy of creating jobs for at least 50 more in the near future is now being operated by Harolds Kitchen and Furniture Manufacturing Co. Inc., and is making modern kitchen cabinets and will manufacture furniture.

Harold M. Waingold, this city, who has been engaged in the used car business for a number of years, is serving as president and active manager of the new firm. Mrs. Rita Waingold is vice president and Louis Waingold is secretary-treasurer. The firm purchased the building and equipment formerly owned and operated by Forest Products Corporation.

Mr. Waingold said yesterday that in addition to manufacturing kitchen cabinets and cupboards, plans have already been launched to begin the manufacture of all types of wood furniture. The plant is equipped with modern woodworking machinery and there is plenty of area for storage and expansion, he said.

Some remodeling is taking place and a modern show room is to be built where the various products of the company will be displayed. Mr. Waingold said the new company is also planning an exhibit in the local home show being sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce next month.

Man Sentenced In Theft Case

Russell Fresh, 39, of 918 Gay Street, was sentenced to 90 days in Allegany County Jail at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick found Fresh guilty of the theft of a television set valued at $99 and of fraudulently obtaining an automobile valued at $295.

Magistrate Dick sentenced Fresh to 30 days on the first charge and 90 days on the second. However, he said the two sentences may run concurrently.

Fresh was arrested around midnight by the State Police near Randallstown.

Det. Thomas See of the City Police said Fresh took a television set early Friday morning and sold it for $35. He then went to a local service station and gave an attendant $10 to try out an automobile.

Instead of returning the car in 10 minutes as he had promised, Fresh took off for the Baltimore area, Det. See said. A pickup was issued and Fresh was arrested and returned here.

Gephart Pupils' Kind Act Makes Md. Native Proud

A Maryland native who is the first woman deputy sheriff in Clay County, Ky., has just written the students and teachers of Cumberland that an act of generosity by a Cumberland elementary school class has made her "proud of the people from my home state."

Mrs. Penny Robinson, Manchester, Ky., mailed the letter which was delivered the other day to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster. She explained that she was a native of Glen Burnie and moved to Kentucky when she married a man from that state.

With her letter she enclosed a clipping from the Louisville Courier-Journal. It was a brief story from Harlan, Ky., which explained that 17 Harlan school children will get a hot meal thanks to the generosity of a class in a Cumberland, Md., elementary school.

Back last month, the second and third graders in the class of Mrs. Mary B. Marple at Gephart School received a check for having more of their parents present at PTA meetings than any other class in the school.

Instead of having a party with the money, the children decided to give half of it to Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter, Muscular Dystrophy Association, and send the other half to Harlan, Ky.

The Courier-Journal clipping said that the $5 contribution from the Cumberland children to help less fortunate youngsters was received by Rev. Edwin Dalstrom, a Presbyterian minister in Harlan. He turned the money over to Miss Dovie Jones, a teacher, who saw that the children were fed.

The $8,970 contract includes the laying of 520 feet of 18-inch sewer pipe and needed catch basins.

Record Filed In Appeal Here

The transcript of record from the Workmen's Compensation Commission in a case being appealed has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Pauline Virginia Stegmaier, widow of John Joseph Stegmaier, was the claimant in this case, Cloyd L. Chaney was the employer and the State Accident Fund the insurer.

The record showed that Mr. Stegmaier, who was a truck helper, fainted and struck his head on the pavement on January 13, 1958, and died six days later. After hearings May 16 and June 16, Commissioner Paul M. Fletcher ruled that Mr. Stegmaier's death was not the result of an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. Consequently, his widow was denied compensation.

The claimant was represented by Attorney Harry I. Stegmaier and the employer and insurer by Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

Baltimore Pike Firemen Busy

The Baltimore Pike volunteer fire company has received five calls in as many days.

Yesterday about 6 p. m. they received a call to Bean's Cove Road, where they extinguished a grass and woods fire which scorched several acres.

Some eight members of the company responded and used Indian pumps and rakes to put out the flames. They said someone in the area had been burning trash and the fire got out of control.

On Sunday the volunteers were called to Brazer's Road off Williams Road, where a grass fire was reported early in the afternoon. It was out on arrival.

On Saturday evening the firefighters were called to the home of Charles Rice on Bean's Cove Road, where there was a flue fire which also was out on arrival.

The volunteers checked a grass and goods fire Friday which burned an area on the Sam Arnold farm along Christie Road. They were on the scene about an hour.

Another woods fire was extinguished by the firemen on Thursday along Willowbrook Road.

Births outnumbered deaths by 859 in Allegany County last year, according to provisional statistics released by the Health Department.

Births in this county totaled 1,918 last year as opposed to 1,059 deaths.

The leading cause of death was diseases of the heart, according to the current Health Department Newsletter, as 524 persons died of this cause alone. Cancer took the lives of another 141 residents.

Incidentally, the Allegany County birth rate is higher than in neighboring Washington County.

The Allegany birth rate was 23.1 per 1,000 while Washington County's rate was 21.3.

Air Force Recruiting Musicians

The Air Force, according to local recruiter S.Sgt. James A. Hawthorne, is making a special effort to enlist male and female musicians.

Young women who can show by audition that they are capable of holding a first-chair position in a high school band can be enlisted directly for the Air Force WAF band.

Sgt. Hawthorne said that this summer Maryland recruiters plan to enlist a WAF band flight, which represents a group of Maryland area girls who will enlist together and probably stay together during their tour of duty.

Recruiters can be contacted at the local recruiting station, third floor, Post Office Building for full information on this unusual opportunity. The station is open daily from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. except Sunday.

The opportunity for the band enlistments may not be offered again for a couple of years, Sgt. Hawthorne noted.

Mt. Savage Boy Seriously Hurt

An eight-year-old Mt. Savage boy was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile on Route 36 while crossing the Jennings Run bridge in Mt. Savage.

Michael Thomas Decker was admitted to Memorial Hospital here shortly after the accident which occurred at 3:10 p. m. when the youngster attempted to cross the road at the bridge.

Attendants said his condition is "satisfactory." The lad has a fracture of the left arm above the elbow, a possible fracture of the skull and injuries to the neck vertebrae.

State Trooper Joseph V. Stakem investigated. He said young Decker was hit by a station wagon operated by Raymond Rister Lepley, 69, of Homewood Addition.

The accident apparently occurred as Mr. Lepley was traveling east on Route 36 and the boy stepped into the path of the vehicle. The right front of the station wagon hit the boy, knocking him to the ground, police said. The injured youngster's brother was a witness to the accident.

The victim lives with his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Moran, in Mt. Savage, police said. His father, Robert H. Decker, is employed in Connecticut.

County Employes Will Receive Two Holidays

This is a double feature holiday week for most county and state employes.

Wednesday is Maryland Day, traditionally observed as a legal holiday by county and state employes. Virtually all offices at the Court House will be closed that day. The one notable exception will be the office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close, which will remain open for the convenience of automobile owners who have not yet purchased their new license tags. These new tags must be displayed on or before midnight, March 31.

The entire Court House will be closed Friday, which is Good Friday and another legal state holiday. The tax collector's office will be closed on that day. Because of the Friday holiday, the Board of County Commissioners will meet today and Thursday this week from 10 a. m. until noon.

C&O Canal Bill Would Allow Dam Building

Leaves Way Clear For Developments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposition developed Monday to an open door approach to creating a Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park and allowing for future Potomac River development.

Two identical bills offered by Reps. Richard E. Lankford and John R. Foley, Maryland Democrats, are designed to leave the way clear for a water supply dam and other developments which may be recommended for the river.

The bills would withhold park development for some of the land until six months after Army engineers have offered a comprehensive river basin report.

Ben H. Thompson, chief of Recreation Resources Planning, Department of Interior, said another bill by Foley without such a provision would not bar Congress from acting in the future for needed river developments.

A proposed dam at River Bend about two miles above Great Falls, he said, would flood the historic canal area for 35 or 40 miles.

Thompson in reply to a question told the House Public Lands Interior subcommittee that if a high dam were built an additional 145 miles of the canal would not be flooded.

Lankford told the subcommittee his and one of Foley's bills are designed to meet some of the objections raised last year.

"The door is left open for the decision of the public and its elected representatives in future years with respect to multiple purpose development," said Lankford.

"The question of the desirability of water storage projects, of the demand for pollution abatement measures, and the feasibility of expanded recreational projects will thus be provided for as these needs arise."

Included in the Army engineers' study is land extending from the end of the George Washington Memorial Parkway above Great Falls to a point near Brunswick, Md.

A water supply reservoir is proposed for a site at River Bend, on the Potomac about 10 miles above Washington.

The subcommittee was told that the proposed park would not be a barrier to access to the Potomac River. Thompson recalled that a 1953 law guarantees such access of industry and other activities.

Man Sentenced In Theft Case

Russell Fresh, 39, of 918 Gay Street, was sentenced to 90 days in Allegany County Jail at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick found Fresh guilty of the theft of a television set valued at $99 and of fraudulently obtaining an automobile valued at $295.

Magistrate Dick sentenced Fresh to 30 days on the first charge and 90 days on the second. However, he said the two sentences may run concurrently.

Fresh was arrested around midnight by the State Police near Randallstown.

Det. Thomas See of the City Police said Fresh took a television set early Friday morning and sold it for $35. He then went to a local service station and gave an attendant $10 to try out an automobile.

Instead of returning the car in 10 minutes as he had promised, Fresh took off for the Baltimore area, Det. See said. A pickup was issued and Fresh was arrested and returned here.

Gephart Pupils' Kind Act Makes Md. Native Proud

A Maryland native who is the first woman deputy sheriff in Clay County, Ky., has just written the students and teachers of Cumberland that an act of generosity by a Cumberland elementary school class has made her "proud of the people from my home state."

Mrs. Penny Robinson, Manchester, Ky., mailed the letter which was delivered the other day to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster. She explained that she was a native of Glen Burnie and moved to Kentucky when she married a man from that state.

With her letter she enclosed a clipping from the Louisville Courier-Journal. It was a brief story from Harlan, Ky., which explained that 17 Harlan school children will get a hot meal thanks to the generosity of a class in a Cumberland, Md., elementary school.

Back last month, the second and third graders in the class of Mrs. Mary B. Marple at Gephart School received a check for having more of their parents present at PTA meetings than any other class in the school.

Instead of having a party with the money, the children decided to give half of it to Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter, Muscular Dystrophy Association, and send the other half to Harlan, Ky.

The Courier-Journal clipping said that the $5 contribution from the Cumberland children to help less fortunate youngsters was received by Rev. Edwin Dalstrom, a Presbyterian minister in Harlan. He turned the money over to Miss Dovie Jones, a teacher, who saw that the children were fed.

Record Filed In Appeal Here

The transcript of record from the Workmen's Compensation Commission in a case being appealed has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Pauline Virginia Stegmaier, widow of John Joseph Stegmaier, was the claimant in this case, Cloyd L. Chaney was the employer and the State Accident Fund the insurer.

The record showed that Mr. Stegmaier, who was a truck helper, fainted and struck his head on the pavement on January 13, 1958, and died six days later. After hearings May 16 and June 16, Commissioner Paul M. Fletcher ruled that Mr. Stegmaier's death was not the result of an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. Consequently, his widow was denied compensation.

The claimant was represented by Attorney Harry I. Stegmaier and the employer and insurer by Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

On Saturday evening the firefighters were called to the home of Charles Rice on Bean's Cove Road, where there was a flue fire which also was out on arrival.

Air Force Recruiting Musicians

The Air Force, according to local recruiter S.Sgt. James A. Hawthorne, is making a special effort to enlist male and female musicians.

Young women who can show by audition that they are capable of holding a first-chair position in a high school band can be enlisted directly for the Air Force WAF band.

Sgt. Hawthorne said that this summer Maryland recruiters plan to enlist a WAF band flight, which represents a group of Maryland area girls who will enlist together and probably stay together during their tour of duty.

Recruiters can be contacted at the local recruiting station, third floor, Post Office Building for full information on this unusual opportunity. The station is open daily from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. except Sunday.

The opportunity for the band enlistments may not be offered again for a couple of years, Sgt. Hawthorne noted.

Mt. Savage Boy Seriously Hurt

An eight-year-old Mt. Savage boy was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile on Route 36 while crossing the Jennings Run bridge in Mt. Savage.

Michael Thomas Decker was admitted to Memorial Hospital here shortly after the accident which occurred at 3:10 p. m. when the youngster attempted to cross the road at the bridge.

Attendants said his condition is "satisfactory." The lad has a fracture of the left arm above the elbow, a possible fracture of the skull and injuries to the neck vertebrae.

State Trooper Joseph V. Stakem investigated. He said young Decker was hit by a station wagon operated by Raymond Rister Lepley, 69, of Homewood Addition.

The accident apparently occurred as Mr. Lepley was traveling east on Route 36 and the boy stepped into the path of the vehicle. The right front of the station wagon hit the boy, knocking him to the ground, police said. The injured youngster's brother was a witness to the accident.

The victim lives with his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Moran, in Mt. Savage, police said. His father, Robert H. Decker, is employed in Connecticut.

C&O Canal Bill Would Allow Dam Building

Leaves Way Clear For Developments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposition developed Monday to an open door approach to creating a Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park and allowing for future Potomac River development.

Two identical bills offered by Reps. Richard E. Lankford and John R. Foley, Maryland Democrats, are designed to leave the way clear for a water supply dam and other developments which may be recommended for the river.

The bills would withhold park development for some of the land until six months after Army engineers have offered a comprehensive river basin report.

Ben H. Thompson, chief of Recreation Resources Planning, Department of Interior, said another bill by Foley without such a provision would not bar Congress from acting in the future for needed river developments.

A proposed dam at River Bend about two miles above Great Falls, he said, would flood the historic canal area for 35 or 40 miles.

Thompson in reply to a question told the House Public Lands Interior subcommittee that if a high dam were built an additional 145 miles of the canal would not be flooded.

Lankford told the subcommittee his and one of Foley's bills are designed to meet some of the objections raised last year.

"The door is left open for the decision of the public and its elected representatives in future years with respect to multiple purpose development," said Lankford.

"The question of the desirability of water storage projects, of the demand for pollution abatement measures, and the feasibility of expanded recreational projects will thus be provided for as these needs arise."

Included in the Army engineers' study is land extending from the end of the George Washington Memorial Parkway above Great Falls to a point near Brunswick, Md.

A water supply reservoir is proposed for a site at River Bend, on the Potomac about 10 miles above Washington.

The subcommittee was told that the proposed park would not be a barrier to access to the Potomac River. Thompson recalled that a 1953 law guarantees such access of industry and other activities.
